Rural Electrification Project To Start Soon

$105,000 READY FOR TRI-COUNTY FARM PROGRAM

Steeley Informed Part Of Money Set Aside For Use in District

Larger Appropriation To Be Made in New Budget

Wholesale power for the lines in Pickaway and Fairfield counties will be purchased for an average of 1.35 cents per kilowatt hour from the Ohio Midland Light and Power Co., Canal Winchester. Power for the Perry county branch of the project will be purchased from the Ohio Power Co.

Federal appropriation of $105,000 to the South Central Rural Electric Co-Operative Association, which includes Pickaway county, was announced Thursday by Marvin Steeley, Washington township, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Steeley said he was notified of the appropriation by De-wie Kinder, of near Pickerington, manager of the Fairfield county branch of the project.

The appropriation was made from the 1936 budget, Steeley said, and additional funds are expected to be appropriated after July 1 when the 1937 allotments will be made.

To Start in Fairfield

Steeley believes the tri-county project will open in Fairfield county as field surveys have been completed there. The Fairfield county branch of the project is the strongest, having more prospective consumers per mile.

As soon as more information is received about the appropriation, Steeley said a meeting of the trustees of the organization will be called and arrangements made for starting the project.

RIFFLE GIRL, 3, SERIOUSLY HURT BY CULPACKER

Bessie, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Riffle, who reside on the Weaver farm near Thatcher, suffered a severe wound on the left side of her head Wednesday when she fell under a culpacker being operated by an older brother.

Two stitches were required to close the wound. X-rays will probably be taken Thursday to determine if the skull is punctured. The child was returned to her home although her condition is serious.

Three of the Riffle children were on the culpacker, being drawn by a team, when Bessie fell off. A culpacker is used to crush clods of dirt.

DISNEY TO ATTEMPT DIMENSIONAL MOVIES

HOLLYWOOD, May 27—(UP)—Walt Disney announced today that his next release of comic cartoons will be in three-dimensional photography, giving the appearance of depth that is lacking on the flat screen.

Under the Disney process no special lenses are needed. The camera "shoots" the various backgrounds and figures through three moving celluloid strips at different distances from the lens.

Disney will be the first producer to try the new development.

Clyde Weaver Arrested By Sheriff, Deputy; Another Caught

The sheriff's department and police opened a drive on operators of the "number" racket Wednesday afternoon making two arrests in which fines totalling $450 were imposed.

Clyde R. Weaver, negro, E. Corwin street, was fined $400 and costs by Common Pleas Judge J. W. Adkins when he admitted a charge of selling numbers. His account was paid.

Weaver was arrested by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver on Route 23 about six miles north of the city. The officers confiscated a small portable safe used for keeping numbers.

Steve Thuransky, 45, of near Obetz Junction, was arrested by Police Chief William McCrady and Officer Fred Fitzpatrick on Maplewood avenue. He was fined $100 and costs by Mayor W. J. Graham. The mayor suspended $50 of the fine. Thuransky paid and was released. Officers charged he was a "pick up" man in the "number" game.

HOOVER ORDERS SPECIAL AGENTS ON BRADY TRAIL

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation today revealed he had ordered a special squad of federal agents to aid the search for three members of an Indiana bandit gang.

The men, Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., Alfred Brady and James Dah-lover, reportedly shot State Police-man Paul Minneman at Logansport, Ind.

Federal charges pending against the gang were filed in connection with the alleged interstate transportation from Lima, O., to Chicago, Ill., on April 27, of stolen jewelry valued at $12,000.

The men also were sought in connection with the deaths of Sergeant Richard Rivers, of the Indianapolis police April 27, 1936, and of Edward Lindsey, Piqua, O., killed during the jewel robbery.

INJURIES FATAL TO CYCLIST HIT BY BURTON CAR

Injuries received last Sunday when he was thrown from his motorcycle in a collision with the automobile of Gene Burton, E. Franklin street, caused the death early Thursday of Edmond De-morest, 37, of Columbus.

The accident occurred at Highland street and Fifth avenue, Columbus.

Demorest's skull was fractured. He was demostarting the motorcycle, belonging to his son, when the accident happened.

Drought Committee Ready To Act in Midwest

CHICAGO, May 27—(UP)—Traders turned their attention to corn today on the Chicago Board of Trade and July futures climbed four cents a bushel, the one-day trading limit.

July new crop futures touched $1.25 and the old crop futures rose to $1.22 a bushel, both up the limit.

May futures closed out yesterday at the highest price in 12 years and the bullish enthusiasm growing out of this activity induced heavy buying today in July corn.

Wallace Favors Normal Granary

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today asked congress to enact the ever normal granary, production control and price stabilization farm program drafted by major farm organizations.

Aims Approved

Appearing before the house agriculture committee, Wallace testified that he agreed with aims of the new farm measure. He suggested several modifications of the measure which proposes production and surplus control of basic farm products.

Wallace was the first administration official to avow open support of the bill.

"I am strongly in favor of principles and purposes of the bill," Wallace said. "It is deserving of immediate consideration in congress and I hope that legislation to carry out aims of this measure will be enacted at the earliest possible date."

Wallace described the aims of the bill as to "safeguard the nation's food supply" and to "protect farm income."

JURORS GATHER TO STUDY BABB AND HART CASES

Supplemental charges defining the elements of the various degrees of murder provided by the laws of Ohio were given county grand jurors Thursday by Judge J. W. Adkins before they started deliberation of two cases.

The jury will consider the shooting of Weldon J. Babb, Perry township farmer, and a statutory offense against Walter Hart, E. Logan street. Officials were uncertain how long the jury's session would last. Seventeen witnesses were called in the two cases. John Teets, 26, Perry township, is being held for investigation in the shooting affair.

Members of the jury are J. O. Eagleson, foreman, Mrs. Harry Moore, Anna Grimes, and G. D. Courtwright, city. Delphine Koch and Ira Fischer, Walnut township; Clara Macklin, Saltcreek township; Mrs. Homer Fridley, Harrison township; Norene Gray and William Phillips, Scioto township; Lenore Wright, Perry township; Marcus Ebenhuck, Deercreek township, and Ray Bowman, Washington township.

Chief C. I. O. Organizer Hurt at Ford Plant

RICHARD T. FRANKENSTEIN, chief organizer of the United Automobile Workers union, is seen, right, holding his battered head after he and 20 or 30 other unionists were injured when Ford company employees clashed with the men at Dearborn, Mich. The fighting began when a delegation of approximately 50 unionists arrived at the Ford plant aboard street cars and began distributing union handbills. Frankenstein alleges that the unionists were attacked by members of the Ford service department, who drove them off company property. After the encounter, union heads announced they would file charges against the company, under the Wagner act.

Four Killed As Airplane Burns

SANTA MARIA, Cal., May 27—(UP)—The bodies of two women and a man, burned beyond recognition in a flaming air crash, were recovered today from the smoldering wreck of a chartered cabin plane. A fourth victim, the pilot, was thrown clear, but killed, when the craft crashed soon after take-off last night.

Deputy Coroner R. H. Dudley said the victims were:

Harry Emme, Los Angeles, oil man, who chartered the ship.

Mrs. C. W. Whitney, Carmel, Cal., restaurant owner.

Mrs. D. B. Fauntleroy, Carmel, but believed an eastern visitor.

The pilot is listed by the department of commerce in Los Angeles as Rod Keenan, Burbank, Cal.

Flames spurted from the single-motored Lockheed ship as it gained altitude after leaving the Santa Maria airport, witnesses said. The plane faltered as the pilot fought for control and plummeted to the ground. It crashed a quarter mile from the airport on the estate of Capt. C. Allan Hancock, sportsman-explorer.

The pilot's body was hurried over the motor. His three passengers were incinerated. It was three hours before the wreckage cooled enough to permit removal of their bodies.

C. W. Whitney witnessed the crash. He saw his wife board the plane only a moment before.

The plane was chartered from the Joe Lewis Air service at Union Air terminal, Burbank, Cal., and was flown north to pick up the passengers here and take them to Los Angeles. The party had been vacationing at Shell Beach.

Rotarians Name Lindbergh, But Answer Proves Wrong

Six out of 10 Rotarians, who were asked Thursday to name the first man to fly the Atlantic ocean, chose Lindbergh, but their answer was wrong. Two Englishmen were first.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of city schools, prepared the questions, different ones being assigned to different groups of men. Fischer is chairman of the club's international service committee.

George Griffith was chairman of the meeting.

40 GALLONS OF WHISKEY FOUND

Two Columbus Negroes To Face Federal Charges Following Arrest

Bootleg whiskey—40 gallons of it—was confiscated and two Columbus negroes were arrested at 2:30 a. m. Thursday when police stopped a suspicious car on N. Court street.

The men arrested were Brown Alsobrook, 52, driver, of 951 Mt. Vernon avenue, and Albert Pryor, 32, of 819 1/2 Buckingham street. Federal authorities were notified about the arrests and were expected in Circleville Thursday evening to take charge of the case.

Patrolman George Green and Carl Radcliff made the arrests. The officers noticed the Ford coupe, in which the men were riding, was low in the rear, and that the tags were wired on. They stopped the car to investigate.

Eight five-gallon cans of liquor were found.

Police checked the license tags on the auto and were told they were fictitious. They were informed the car belonged to George Thornton, of 759 Grove street, Columbus, had been left at a garage for repairs, and apparently was used without the permission of the owner.

OHIO SALESMAN ADMITS SEEKING DOCTOR'S MONEY

TOLEDO, May 27—(UP)—Police said today they had obtained from Fred Haddad, 25, automobile salesman, a confession that he extorted $20,000 from Dr. Dayton Pulford, 38, a physician.

Dr. Pulford was quoted by authorities as saying the money was paid by him within 20 months to conceal the fact that he had traffic tickets "fixed."

Haddad was held under $10,000 bail on a technical charge of suspicion. He was taken into custody in Dr. Pulford's office where he allegedly appeared in an effort to get more money.

MARKET IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—The stock market rallied today after early irregularity. Leading issues registered gains ranging to more than a point. Anaconda directors doubled the dividend and the stock firmed slightly only to recoil on profit-taking. Other coppers were strong with American Smelting at 91 up 1 1/2 and Kennecott at 59 1/2 up 1 1/2.

Union's Agents Beaten

DETROIT, May 27—(UP)—Federal and state authorities studied charges by the United Automobile Workers' union today that Ford Motor company employees were responsible for an attack on union organizers at Henry Ford's Dearborn plant yesterday.

The union placed before Frank Bowen, regional director of the National Labor Relations board, a complaint charging the company with intimidation and coercion in violation of the Wagner act.

Ben Allen, investigator for the senate civil liberties committee headed by Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Prog., Wis., who witnessed the attack, indicated that the committee would review the incident. He said he would issue subpoenas for Harry Bennett, chief of the Ford service department, and other Ford workers, and send a personal account to LaFollette.

"The U. A. W. A. intends to prosecute this case in every possible way and with all vigor and energy," union officials said in a formal statement today. "Today the world has seen the true character of the Ford Motor company. We don't intend that it shall forget it."

Members of A. F. of L.

Bennett denied that his men had participated in the attack. He said the attackers were members of the American Federation of Labor. That was denied by Robert Passage, acting president of the Detroit and Wayne county Federation of labor, who declared:

"The federation has not and does not intend to interfere with any organization work by the United Automobile Workers. We have made no campaign there (at Ford's plant) and we have no members there."

Bennett charged that the trou-

DR. DAFOE WORKS WITH DIONNES TO WIN RADIO TALKS

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27—(UP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe rehearsed his repertoire of coaxing smiles and phrases today and hoped he would be able to persuade the Dionne quintuplets to speak a few words—in "quintalk" or French—into the microphone.

He was a little dubious as to the success of the international broadcast scheduled for tomorrow, the babies' third birthday. They're unpredictable, he explained.

If Dr. Dafoe's blandishments work, the girls will toddle up to the microphone and address the radio audience. What they will say, however, will depend entirely on their mood. If it is cooperative, they will babble in French, the only orthodox language they know. But they may, Dr. Dafoe warned, speak only in "quintalk"—the mysterious language in which they converse among themselves and which not even their nurses understand.

MacDONALD ENDS LENGTHY SERVICE FOR HIS NATION

LONDON, May 27—(UP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, retiring from politics after a long and stormy career, had his farewell audience with King George today and was understood to have refused an earldom.

MacDonald visited Buckingham palace to resign as lord president of the council, in preparation for tomorrow's cabinet turnover in which Stanley Baldwin will retire as premier and Neville Chamberlain will succeed him.

Trouble Greatest Since That of U. S. Steel in 1919

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—The federal government today established direct communication with the steel centers of the Ohio valley where the largest strike in the hot mills since 1919 spread through the Youngstown area and northward to Chicago.

Secretary of labor Frances Perkins received a lengthy telephonic report on the situation from James F. Dewey, commissioner of conciliation, who has been the department's expert on steel labor for more than a decade.

CLEVELAND, May 27—

(UP)—A strike by steel and iron workers affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization against three great "independent" steel companies cooled furnaces and stilled fabricating mills today in two of the country's most important centers of heavy industry.

The strike was called against the Republic Steel Corp., the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., and the Inland Steel Corp., for the sole reason that they have declined to enter into written contracts with the C. I. O. The companies took the stand that such contracts would open the way to the closed shop.

Largest Since 1919

The strike was the largest in the steel industry since the unsuccessful one against the United States Steel Corporation in 1919.

The three companies involved have one-sixth of the industry's total producing capacity and employ 90,000 men. Their northern plants, which alone were affected (Continued on Page Twelve.)

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED AFTER FARMER, 35, DIES

Coroner C. E. Bowers returned a verdict of suicide by hanging Thursday in the death of Arthur Porchet, 35, Muhlenberg township farm laborer.

Porchet worked on the farm of James Grant Stinchcomb. He had resided on the place about three years. Ill health was blamed for his act.

Porchet and Charles Riley, 21, also employed on the farm, had been working together early Thursday loading lumber. While Riley was doing some other chores, Porchet went to the haymow and used a rope to take his life.

Riley missing his fellow worker, searched and found the body. He was found about 9:30 a. m.

Porchet is survived by his father and a sister, Mrs. Edna Hilbert, both of near Plain City, Ohio. The Stinchcomb farm is on the Gulick road.

Gregg Loves Bees

Sam Gregg, who has about a million working for him every day, has turned out to be a real bee man. Told you a few days ago about him giving a poor, strange swarm a good home in a modern bee house. Says his little friends are working hard every day and thinks he'll have plenty of honey for sale now soon if the good work goes on. Felt sure he was to have another bee colony added to his already millions of little friends, but he was doomed to disappointment. A wild swarm had "settled" on a little tree near the home of Dr. Hosler and Sam was notified post-haste of this fact and told to get busy and give the tramps a good home. But he made the mistake of first looking 'em over. He won't tell what he said or did, but it was something the king and queen of the big family didn't like, and when Sam came with his nice hive which was to be the home of his good little friends, they had

Coal Trains Bring Concern

Often wondered about these big, long, coal trains which roll along through Ashville over the N. & W., pulled by a monster engine. What it actually costs to get one of these big loads to where it is going and how much the freight charge for the service may be? Sometimes there are as many as 140 loaded coal cars being dragged along to the north to Toledo, we suspect, because have been told that Toledo has the most extensive coal docks in the world. Even at the moderate freight charge of $100 the car, the whole train load freight cost, amounts to considerable, but when this charge is minused with operating costs, that presents a different picture.

Joe Cook will add Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, to the list of show guest stars who have done what experts said could not be done. He will appear in a three-way interview with Cook and Mrs. John J. McGraw, widow of the famed manager of the New York Giants.

Since January, Cook has presented other miracle men of baseball — Babe Ruth, Bob Feller, Carl Hubbell and Dizzy Dean — on his broadcast over the NBC red network at 8:30 p. m. (EST), on Saturday, May 29.

Connie Mack, known for years as "the grand old man of baseball," again entered the "modern miracle men" classification this year with the Athletics. "Mounties" Take To Autos

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (UP)—The famous "mounties" of Canada have abandoned horses in favor of swift automobiles to trail rustlers in Southern Alberta. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are patrolling the ranges along the Alberta-Montana border in an effort to trap an organized gang of rustlers.

CANNING JOBS AVAILABLE, WOMEN'S W. P. A. PROJECTS ARE SUSPENDED

ESMERALDA CO. NEEDS WORKERS TO PACK SPINACH

47 Now On Three Tasks Told To Take Private Positions

SMITH SEEKS EMPLOYEES

Difficulty In Obtaining Labor Is Reported

Employment of women at the Esmeralda Canning Co for the spinach pack has caused temporary suspension of women's projects under W. P. A.

Forty-seven women had been employed in Circleville, Williamsport and Ashville on the sewing, clothing renovation and book repair programs. Mrs. Beulah Madison, supervisor, said 16 were on the sewing project, 18 on renovation of clothing and 13 on book repairs. Twenty-seven were employed here and 20 in the villages.

Must Accept Jobs
Under W. P. A. regulations the workers must accept private employment when it is offered. If they fail to accept employment they are discharged.

James I. Smith, Jr., of the Esmeralda company, said spinach has been canned at intervals during the last three weeks, and he has experienced difficulty in obtaining workers, especially women. The canning season will last about two weeks, Mr. Smith said the plant will can potatoes in July. Approximately 200 persons are provided employment by the company during the canning season.

In Race for Millions

AMONG those seeking a share in the four or five million-dollar fortune left by the late Edward W. (Daddy) Browning of New York, is Marjorie Brown, 21-year-old Columbia university student. Until recently Miss Browning thought she was Browning's real daughter. Then she learned that she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Herbst, and was adopted by Browning's wife Adele. Whether or not Browning was a party to the adoption is the question which will decide Marjorie's participation in the fortune. Adele was cut off without a cent.

Mrs. Dunkel's home where a delicious buffet lunch and several games were enjoyed.

Mrs. L. M. Tarbill planned a pleasant surprise last Friday, reminding her husband of his natal anniversary which occurred on that day. A number of relatives arrived at the noon hour with a lovely picnic dinner.

Those enjoying the day at the Tarbill home were: Mrs. Mable Hancock of Williamsport, Mrs. Daisy Stinson of Atlanta, Mrs. Harley Freeman of Waterloo, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Griffith and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Ercell Wright, Dean and Peggy Lou Tarbill. Mr. Tarbill received many gifts and best wishes.

Mrs. Kenneth Smith of Dayton spent Wednesday night and Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Griffith.

Harry Armstrong of Detroit, Mich. was a week-end guest of his mother, Mrs. Ollie Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thomas of Steubenville were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cranston McQuay and daughter, Elaine.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wenner and children of Bainbridge spent the week-end with friends here.

Miss Fae Wood of Columbus was a weekend guest of Miss Jonnie Davis.

Proclamation

WHEREAS: The Buddy Poppy is universally recognized as the official memorial flower of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States; and

WHEREAS: The sixteenth annual sale of the Buddy Poppy will be conducted in the city of Circleville on Saturday, May 29th under the auspices of Ladies Auxiliary to Henry Page Folsom Jr. Post No. 3331, V. F. W.; and

WHEREAS: The entire proceeds of the sixteenth annual Buddy Poppy sale throughout the country will be devoted to the humanitarian and philanthropic purposes of veteran care, child welfare and the relief and assistance of disabled and needy veterans; and

WHEREAS: The purposes served by the annual Buddy Poppy distribution of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States are patriotic in principle and humanitarian in nature.

I, Therefore, Hereby Officially Proclaim: Saturday May 29th in the city of Circleville as V. F. W. Buddy Poppy Day and do sincerely urge the residents and citizens of this city to support the sale of Buddy Poppies as both a civic and a patriotic duty.

Signed WILLIAM J. GRAHAM, Mayor.

NAZIS DEFEATED BY MANY VOTES OF NETHERLANDS

AMSTERDAM, May 27.—(UP)—Netherlands Nazis promised a better showing "next time" today after suffering a crushing defeat in a parliamentary general election by the government coalition parties under Premier Hendrikus Colijn.

Dr. Anton A. Mussert, Nazi leader, had hoped to obtain 10 seats at least of the 100 in the second chamber—corresponding to the house of representatives—but obtained four. His national Socialists received 171,057 of the 4,000,000-vote cast, or about 4.3 percent.

In a speech to his followers, Mussert said:

"We have made a mistake. Now we stand alone. Comrades, we have received a hard blow. We will be ridiculed by many. But our spirit is unbroken. We shall continue for the future, to fight at the next election."

Premier Colijn said:

"On May 26 the Netherlands nation called a forceful halt to the Nazi government."

LAKE SAILBOAT STOLEN

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—William E. Campbell was proud of his sailboat's good points. But he didn't realize "it would sail so far that I couldn't find it." His boat disappeared from White Rock Lake near Dallas. No trace of it was found. It was the first sailboat ever to disappear from the lake.

JUDGE, YOUTH IN MARBLE TILT; BOY REFORMED

WALTHAM, Mass. (UP)—A wise judge has stooped to a game of marbles and thus conquered stubborn tendencies of an eight-year-old boy.

Because he played hookey and wouldn't mind his parents, the child was brought before District Judge P. Sarsfield Cunniff. He called the judge "sissy" because of his long, black robe, then fell silent.

Judge Cunniff finally found common ground in a discussion of marbles. Later he bought "migs" for a game and the lad won them all.

Now the boy has a new home under state supervision. No more hookey or stubbornness.

Instead, he has confided to the judge, he wants to be a "cop."

ST. LOUIS HOST TO STUNT AND SPEED AIRMEN

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Outstanding world stunt and race pilots converged on St. Louis today for participation in the international aerobatic competition and air to give a demonstration of naval precision flying.

Go ahead, Mister!

IT'S YOUR MOVE-UP

It doesn't make much difference what kind of car you're driving now—when you see what you can do in this bellwether Buick, you'll agree you've gone ahead, moved up, stepped away out front!

Sit in it—settle back in its cushions and sense the bulk of its fine mass beneath you—you feel better already and you haven't made a start!

Take the wheel, it fits your hand like a sword-grip—swing it, it's easy and responsive as a bandmaster's baton!

Touch the treadle—quiet and silky that waiting engine leaps into life quick as a hungry trout—that's no mere six you're bossing, but the matchless valve-in-head straight eight that only Buick knows how to build!

What's to keep you from going ahead with this king-pin car this spring and summer? If you think it's money, think once more—for this great eight costs little more than the average six, and actually less than some!

So come see us now. Once in a Buick your own good sense will make you reach for the dotted line.

FARMERS TOLD CHEMURGY HELP ISN'T CURE - ALL
ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP)—Fear that agriculturists may become too optimistic about development of new commercial uses for farm products was expressed by F. W. Peck, director of agricultural extension and vice-director of agricultural research of the University of Minnesota farm.
There is danger that possibilities in the field of farm chemurgy may be oversold, Peck said. He explained that chemistry at work with farm products has attracted a great deal of attention among industrialists, chemists and farm leaders, but that farmers may rush into production of commodities intended for commercial use but for which no adequate market has been developed. Industry may not be able to pay high enough prices to justify production of such products by farmers, Peck said.

CHURCH HISTORY TOLD IN STAMPS

LA CROSSE, Wis. (UP)—"Little Histories" of Catholicism, the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, child welfare and renowned artists are pictured vividly in the famous collection of stamps assembled by the Rev. Ferdinand Cech of La Crosse. The arrangement and classification of the stamps has brought Father Cech international attention. With his exhibits, mounted in glass-covered frames, the priest has won many prizes in national contests.
Father Cech began collecting stamps as a hobby 30 years ago shortly after he was ordained to portray philately the history of Catholicism. He devotes the most time upon his "Philatelic Litany of the Saints" which reveals historically the honors bestowed upon Saints by countries throughout the world.
Old Masters of art are paid tribute in Father Cech's "The Old Masters in Philately". Another album pictures Catholic buildings throughout the globe, including churches, cathedrals and monasteries.
Father Cech's collections tracing the history of the Boy Scouts, Red Cross and child welfare are not as extensive as those mentioned previously, but they do not lack interest.
The priest has written pictures to go with each of his exhibits. At present, he is writing a book, "Catholic Philately". He is a member of these stamp collectors' organizations: Philatelic Journalists' Association, Footlose Philatelists, American Philatelic Society and the Society of Philatelic Americans.

Relatively minor stamp collections that Father Cech had gathered in recent years concerning animals and birds, etc., he has given to children.
UNIVERSITY HAS 100,000 VOLUMES ON SCANDINAVIA
MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—With more than 100,000 volumes in its Scandinavian department library, the University of Minnesota's collection is recognized as the finest library of Scandinavian works in the United States, according to Andrew A. Stromberg, department head.
The university collection is the only one in this country which contains a complete record of proceedings of the governing bodies of Norway, Denmark and Sweden, Stromberg said.
"In the past, Scandinavian students have shown slight interest in the courses our department offered," Stromberg said. "They were too close to the immigration period of their parents. As they became more widely separated from that era they are taking an increasing interest in studying the culture and historical backgrounds of their origins."

Stromberg, who has headed the university's Scandinavian department for 30 years and under whose direction its library was developed, believes the fourth generation since the heavy immigration of Scandinavians will produce even greater interest in the courses and facilities available for study of those peoples.

Bathing Suits More Stylish
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Bathing suits this season will emphasize a slim silhouette—and mostly a slim silhouette, according to Richard Steinway, stylist at the Knitting Arts Exhibition. The new beach wear, according to Steinway, will show more attention to style and design.

WATER ATTACK BEGUN AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE

Tuberculosis Association
To Open Its Session In Milwaukee

Nearly 70,000 Die Each Year
Of Disease

MILWAUKEE, May 27—(UP)—The 2,000-year-old battle to whip the white scourge of tuberculosis will receive fresh impetus at the National Tuberculosis Association's 33d annual convention here May 31 to June 5.

The meeting is expected to attract 1,500 physicians, research scientists, nurses, social workers and laymen to plan a stronger frontal attack against the disease on behalf of its 600,000 victims in the United States. Revitalization of the attack is planned through wide distribution and more general application of knowledge about tuberculosis gleaned through centuries of painstaking study. Eradication of the scourge of generations is believed possible if this knowledge can be applied intensively and consistently, according to experts in the field.

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the first tuberculosis dispensary in the world at Edinburgh, Scotland, by Sir Robert Philip, M. D., also will be observed at the convention. Philip's dispensary is reputed to be the first organized community effort made in the world to free mankind of tuberculosis.

Studies begun 2,000 years ago. Veterans in anti-tuberculosis activity are continuing studies known to have begun some 2,000 years ago. The aid of laboratory science has been enlisted for some 300 years. But the human family, acting as a community, took up the cudgel in its own behalf only a half-century ago. As evidence of the strides made since that development, scientist cite reports showing reduction of the tuberculosis mortality from 300 deaths per 100,000 population among civilized countries in 1887 to approximately 50 deaths per 100,000 persons at present.

Cost of clinic treatment of the disease in the United States was estimated at between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 annually. Studies indicate regional differences in effect of the disease with the mortality higher among men than women in all parts of the nation except the Mississippi valley and the Southern states.

Deaths Gradually Reduced
Nearly 70,000 persons in the United States die annually of tuberculosis, according to reports to be presented at the meeting. The death rate has been lowered from 201 deaths per 10,000 population in 1904 to 55 in 1935. Prevalence of the disease is estimated to entail costs totaling about

CHICK CHATS

There is an old riddle: "Why is a hen a poor economist?" And the answer is: "For every grain she takes she gives a peck!" You probably know that the reason hens do not lay at night is because "at night they are all roosters!"

If you have handled thousands of chicks each spring you also know that there is a difference. This difference is not only in their immediate vigor and good size but in the history back of the chick. Two boxes of chicks that look practically alike to the naked eye may be as different as a scrub cow and a magnificent thoroughbred.

The best answer to our first riddle is: A good hen is not and never has been a poor economist. During the depression many a large flock paid the interest on the mortgage and kept the wolf from the door. The ratio between feed cost and egg prices has, of course, been unfavorable for a few months. More so than at any time since 1917.

But it is surprising how many flocks owners—keeping a close record for the entire year and not judging by a few months—have made money the last year under rather adverse poultry conditions. Think how much better they will do next fall and winter. This is no "riddle" to decide whether or not you shall fill your laying house with pullets in the fall. You will, if you can.

Sometimes it is puzzling to the poultry keeper just what periods in the life of a chick are "critical periods". From a profit and loss standpoint there is no more critical period than the eighth to the sixteenth week, simply because the average poultryman becomes careless during that period and usually has heavy losses. Growing stock must have plenty of Vitamins, enough minerals and proper nutrients so that they will not suffer nor go to pieces after they come into lay. During that period it is a wise idea to give them Epsom Salts every two weeks (for three or four hours during one morning only.)

Or better still, give them a milk flush making their ration forty percent dried milk and feed it for one day every two weeks. If there is no growing green stuff on the pullet range, then supply green feed in the morning (fresh cut alfalfa, clover or other grasses or carrots etc.) at the rate of three pounds per hundred birds. If no fresh greens are available then leafy alfalfa hay may be kept in wire netting where pullets can get at it all the time.

There is an old saying "When in doubt do nothing!" But I would suggest that when you are in doubt or puzzled about any details of the poultry project, seek the counsel of an experienced poultryman, someone in whom you have confidence, and solve that puzzle quickly or you are likely to experience lost profit.—By S. Croman.

THE GIRL WITH BRAINS

THE educated girl of former years was
thoughts had been so concentrated on the
acquisition of learning, that she neglected
her personal appearance. The boys were supposed to be more likely to marry some
red cheeked peach.

Many boys are plain and practical, interested in sports and money making, but they don't know much about books. If the fair graduate should begin talking about
evolution or Tennyson, they wouldn't know
what to say. Hence, it has often been said
that the educated girl must carefully conceal the fact that she knows something, if
she wishes masculine attention.

But the pictures of the scenes about the
schools and colleges, the photographs of
the girl graduates, do not suggest that education and beauty are necessarily opposed
to each other. In fact, the looks of these diploma winners would be hard to beat.
It would appear their minds have not been exclusively fixed upon the lines of the
poets, nor on the theorems of geometry.
Apparently they have paid their share of
visits to the beauty shop.

Some boys had better give their sluggish
minds a bit of a prod, and find out about
the things going on in the world. Then they will not be absolutely speechless when
they find a girl who knows something. Such
a girl will make a better showing when
you step out with her into a quizzical
world.

SAME OLD STORY

MICHIGAN politicians are trying to increase the State sales tax from two to three percent. They claim that more money
is needed, and, of course, the tax on retail selling offers an attractive opportunity
for augmenting the public treasury.

It's the same old story. Give the political gentry a fiscal opening, and they will immediately begin expanding it into a veritable bonanza.

If the taxpayers of Michigan are wise,
they will join in a vigorous drive to curb the
tax-grabbers before it's too late.

CHILDREN'S HOME WORK

AMONG foremost educators the desirability of abolishing home work requirements for pupils is seriously discussed. In a recent radio address an official of the United Parents' Association, of New York,
said that requiring children to have defi-nited study periods at home is coming to be considered "one of the greatest contributing factors to retardation and the cause of
a high percentage of truancy."

More serious, perhaps, is the evil effect
of depriving childhood of its right to normal playtime and to early bedtime. Little
will be gained if book lessons are learned
at the expense of health and normal development of the child mind.

ROBINSON MAY GET COURT JOB

WASHINGTON — Senate Floor Leader
Joe Robinson will be appointed to the Supreme Court vacancy — but he won't
get the prize plum right away.

Under the law the President must name
the successor to Justice Van Devanter before the conclusion of the current session
of Congress. But since the session is good for at least another three months, the President has plenty of time to act.

And he is going to take his time—for
three very good reasons:

First, to put the heat on Joe to get busy
and deliver the Judicial Reorganization Bill. The Arkansian is for the President's measure, but to date his efforts in its behalf have been nothing to write home
about. If he will exert himself he can produce some badly needed Senate support.

He can, for example, put the quietus on
Vice President Jack Garner and certain
other Administration leaders, who while professing to be for the bill, have been
secretly sniping at it. Joe also might win
over some votes from the opposition camp,
for his most zealous backers for the Supreme Court job are among the foes of the President's measure. Joe could put it up to them that if they are such good pals of
his they could give tangible expression to
their friendship by coming across for him
in the Court right.

Second, the White House wants to keep
Joe in the Senate until its legislative program is out of the way. A vacancy in the floor leadership now might lead to a cat-
and-dog wrangle for the place, and still further complicate an already badly muddled
situation.

Finally, Robinson's 65 years makes it embarrassing to appoint him to the one available vacancy while the court controversy is
in progress. However, if several additional Justices were authorized, he could be included in the list of appointees on the ground that he is one of a group of representative selections.

So Joe will be kept on tenter-hooks to
earn his appointment.

ROBINSON LOBBY

The Capital has never seen a more extraordinary lobby than one plugging for Robinson. It consists almost entirely of Senators.

Not only is the entire Administration
leadership busy, but practically all the Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats
are rooting for him. The only ones not active are the progressives—and they are not actually opposing Joe, either.

The ink on Van Devanter's resignation
was hardly dry before the lobby was in full cry. Reporters experienced the unique thrill of being buttonholed by big-name
Senators and urged to go to bat for Robinson.

One of the most amusing incidents was
the threatening statement made by Josiah
Bailey, who has opposed practically everything advocated by the President.

"If Joe isn't appointed," proclaimed the
reactionary North Carolina Senator, "the President will lose not only a Senate leader
but the entire Senate."

should be able to get at the facts and decide on right policies.

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy Knight, in the temporary role
of a radio announcer of a Children's Hour program, has been misled by the fan mail of a lady named Marcia.
Disgusted and humiliated, he jumps
into his car and leaves town. After driving for miles, he pauses at a deserted beach for a plunge in the ocean.
Suddenly a girl appears and asks
Sandy to rescue her dog. He learns
the girl is Marcia Madden whose
grandmother perpetrated the radio
prank. Then Sandy meets Grandma.
He likes both women at once. Marcia fascinates him. He learns she is a commercial artist and she discovers Sandy is the head of a new advertising firm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5

"I THINK I like best the independence of advertising and the chance for individual thinking that
it offers," Marcia told Sandy. "You
seem to be pioneers of ideas when
you are working out details of an advertising campaign. Always searching for the new, leading the
way. A catch phrase, a tricky
idea, anything to make people
wake up to something they should know. It keeps you mentally excited, on your toes every minute."

"Ah, we have an idealist to contend with. Of course, that's one side of it. But how about the theory that your job so often is to
make people want something they
really don't need, or can't afford.
What of that?" Sandy was teasing her, yet not a little interested
to see how the girl would take
sides on this controversial problem.

"If people were satisfied with
what they had, there'd be no
progress," she countered sensibly.
"I don't think advertising should stir up unreasonable or unnecessary desires. But it is a responsibility to keep people informed of the
new things, educate them up to
wanting them and using them.
Besides, these same 'wants' are spurs to ambition. If you have reason enough, you'll work harder.
It's a sort of stimulus to reach the top of the ladder."

"Sounds like a squirrel cage to
me. Goes round and round and never gets anywhere. Sort of the more you want the more you want idea." Sandy was deliberately trying to annoy her. Then he went on, sadly: "Yes, my lady, I'm afraid you would be one of these
whip-cracking wives, always goad-
ing your poor man into new expenditures. I can see him now,
with his nose at the grindstone."

"Can you see his face, old dear?"
she asked with mock solemnity.
"I've always wanted to know just what my fate would be."
"No, nothing except that he's old
and gray—from overwork, no doubt," he laughed. "But don't let me fuss you. Honestly, you're right, you know. There is a chance
to do a lot of good through advertising. Make life easier and, safer
by stirring up a lot of justifiable
wants. Keep your dreams, my girl, keep your head in the stars!"

"And your nose to the grindstone—or, I mean my husband's,"
she corrected herself with an embarrassed glance at Sandy.

"Not a bad idea," he caught her
up quickly. "Now, what I'd suggest is—"

"Another swim," she interrupted,
thinking the conversation was
heading too rapidly toward a climax. "You can borrow some of George's trunks and we'll have a swim before lunch time. That is,
if you'd like? Your other dip was cut short, I'm afraid—and I never
did get around to mine."

So the talk became general
again, but the brief skirmish had awakened real awareness of each other. "Easy does it, old man,"
Sandy admonished himself in a monotone, as he followed Marcia
down the jagged trail to the sand
a few moments later. Diving neatly and almost simultaneously beneath a wave, they struck out
lazily to swim in the protected
cove. As usual, the steady pull
was both relaxing and refreshing.
They swam side by side in a spirit
of complete understanding, then

"I must go," Marcia said abruptly.

reluctantly headed for shore.

"I must go," Marcia said abruptly,
when Sandy had settled himself
to "sun tan" on the burning sands.
"We've guests for lunch and I have to dash. Won't you join us?"

Sandy declined the invitation
with an apologetic gesture indicating his informal attire. He went up the trail with her to change his trunks for the comfortable tweeds, then parted with emphatic remarks about seeing her
that evening.

"My two girls tonight," he said as
he made a hasty exit through the garden. "And many other evenings. I go to see if I can't rent
you little dove nest for the week."

"Just so you don't start cooing,"
she flung back at him as he went swinging through the gate. Looking back he saw her, still in her
white suit with the scarlet cape
dripping from her shoulders. The great palm tree cast weird shadows upon her figure, but the sun
highlighted her coppery hair and
even from that distance he caught
her radiant smile of farewell. He was to remember that picture of Marcia all his life, the combination
of sunshine and shadow, her un-
quenchable bright spirit that refused to be subdued by the clutching fingers of the shadows about her.

"Getting poetic already," he
mused, as he caught himself thinking of Marcia in such fanciful manner. She caught his imagination
as no one else had, for he sensed
the true character that was an integral part of this girl. She could baffle nonsense with the best of them, yet she had a fund of common sense and appeal that made
her beyond the average—even at
first meeting. What would future
acquaintance bring—an untold
wealth of happiness, or disillusion-
ment?

Sandy made hurried negotiations
with the auto camp operator, and
unpacked his meager store of clothing slowly. He wondered if he was foolishly letting himself in
for another embarrassing experience by staying at La Cresta and developing the friendship with the charming Marcia Madden. But as he remembered her straightforward manner and her disarming
smile, he relaxed.

"I'm getting myself all jled up
in a romance, without even knowing if the gal is interested," he laughed at himself. He knew his

own failing of taking everyone
more seriously than the occasion
warranted, but this time he felt
sure that the situation did require
a little serious concentration.
Sandy wasn't much of a lady's man; his shyness precluded it. But he had always cherished a secret
dream of the One Girl who was to change the whole course of his life. Demure and sweet she was,
not necessarily too much of the
clinging-vine type, but one who
would make a man feel his manhood. Someone to stay at home,
and to welcome him after a long
day.

Stay at home! As he thought
over his ideal girl, he hit upon this stumbling block. For while Marcia
was ultra-feminine in appearance, she most certainly was not a
stay-at-home. On the contrary,
she seemed too much wrapped up
in this professional life of hers.

Sandy recalled the enjoyable conference they had shared that
morning, and while he admitted the
satisfaction of eliciting intelligent
responses from Marcia on subjects
so close to his own heart, at the same time he resented the fact
that she was so engrossed in business activities.

"Well, I'll change that or know
the reason why," Sandy thought to himself, for he felt more and more
certain that Marcia was the girl
he had hoped to find at every house
party, every dance he was forced
to attend. And if she did prove to be the right person, surely she
would change her mode of living
from working girl to adored housewife without a quail.

Sandy spent the next eight days
furthering these ideas. Unaccustomed as he was to approved
Emily Post methods of courtship,
he made good headway in those
sunny lazy days when he and Marcia spent most of their time swimming in the turquoise sea or riding
along shady lanes. He felt their friendship had ripened far beyond
casual limits, and as they ate picnic suppers on the sand, chatted
in the sunroom with Grandma, or dashed down the hill to see the only movie in town, he watched her
closely to see if the new experience
they were sharing had diminished
her interest in continuing with a business career.

How Nervous System Works in Playing Games

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE OF THE most complicated
and intricate mechanisms of the
body is one which we all take on trust, which is performed all the time on every vacant lot and place where a tennis court
or golf course
can be erected.

Dr. Clendening

This is the process which is the basis of practically all games, the ability to hit a small round object—a ball, with a long, large object—a baseball bat, or a tennis racket or a golf club. Anybody can do it after a fashion. And yet if you are going to do it very well, it requires the co-operation of practically the entire nervous and muscular systems.

Just think of the difficulties of the situation. Here is a baseball, we will say, coming toward you at a speed of at least 60 miles an hour. I do not know exactly how big a standard baseball is, but certainly it is not more than four inches in diameter. You are going to try to hit that ball with a wooden bat which at its largest part is probably no larger than three inches. The ball is going to pass your body at a certain point in space and at a certain fractional second of time, and exactly at that time and exactly at that point, you must bring forward with the muscles of your arms and shoulders, the bat so that it exactly co-incident with the middle of the ball.

If you had a ball hanging there and could practice a couple of times, you could do it very well, but even that would be marvelous because the ball is entirely outside the contact of your body. In other words, you have to determine the point in space where the ball is going to be, and then you have to determine how to get the bat exactly to the coincident space.

What determines these judgments? There probably is no part
of the nervous system, except the
organ of reason, which is not involved. There is no reason to it.
In the first place, you have to be able to stand up, to balance yourself in space. This means that the three little canals in the ear, which
are filled with a very sensitive
fluid, must respond so accurately
that you can tell even with your eyes shut whether you are standing upright or lying down, or
also, you see, allow your body to make judgment as to whether and how far it is leaning forward or backward. These canals send nerve fibers to the cerebellum. The eyes have to be able to judge distance, and they help in a way to keep the body in space. The eyes
also send fibers to the cerebellum.

Now it so happens that if you
have a normal nervous system, you
are able to shut your eyes and extend your hand and forefinger, and
at a command touch the tip of
your nose with the end of your forefinger. To do this depends on muscle sense, whether your muscles are tensed, whether the arm is straightened or bent. Did you ever think that it is quite remarkable that you can tell whether
your arm is straight or bent, and
exactly how much bent? From the muscles and points which determine this judgment, nerve fibers
go to the cerebellum.

We are getting to see that the
cerebellum is a pretty important
kind of an organ. It doesn't do any thinking for us, but it does all those automatic things which carry us through these complicated processes.

When all the fibers from the organ of equilibrium, and the eyes,
and the muscles get to the cere-
bellum, their sensations are there
added up, as in a clearing house,
so that you can perform the marvelous feat of placing the bat exactly against the surface of the
ball in space and in point of time.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to coffee and the morning paper, finding in the prints much news of threatened strikes, they having replaced war possibilities in the headlines and with reason, too, for they are almost as costly in cash. Did know a man once who bought a good automobile, but could not leave its "innards" alone and consequently had much more than his share of transportation trouble. We are something like that chap. Just about the time the nation begins hitting on all eight cylinders after many a long year of limping we suddenly decide to make it run better. Maybe we will, and maybe we will not.

Overheard Jim Swearingen and "Dick" Curl discussing service in Circleville's first national guard company. Mr. Curl, now 86, was one of the first to join the military organization and saw service in the great railroad strike of 1877, the first major labor disturbance in the nation. Of 75 local men who saw military service during that strike only two besides Mr. Curl are alive. They are Howard Brown, of the village, and George Groce, who now lives in Columbus. Jim took up arms in the company the year after the strike.

On South Scioto street did note a great beauty bush in the yard of Mrs. B. K. Clapp, and it is truly named. Twelve feet tall and a mass of bloom. Fay, the little girl next door, dropped in to settle a question in her mind as to whether the scrivener is the janitor at the news-paper plant and for some reason apparently much disappointed to hear otherwise.

In the afternoon to the funeral of George Foerst at the Elks club, sitting among the great and near great as the Rev. Herman Sayre paid a fine tribute to a good citizen who has passed on. Real sorrow in evidence there for we all know how George will be missed.

Impressed by the Elks funeral service which had not heard in 20 years, the last time being over Indiana way following death of a mysterious Colonel Hawkins, a kindly and intelligent man who gave me much advice of merit, but who steadfastly refused to disclose facts regarding his own past. In his effects was found the name of a sister to be notified in the event of death. And to the colonel's funeral came the governors of four Southern states and many other high officials, for he was a member of a great family who had lost his money and who preferred disappearing from the land that had known him from a boy. He was much like George Foerst in his tolerance and respect for others.

Back to the plant, then, for a session of cyphering against the first of the month and found nothing particularly pleasing in the figures. Saw Patricia Bennett passing, so did hurry out and deliver in person a birthday greeting card that should have been mailed the day before.

Many Exhibitors Take Part in Flower Show

Display to Be Open Until 9 o'clock Two Evenings

Thursday marked the opening of the Flower Show sponsored by the members of the Pickaway County Garden club. The show is being held in the E. E. Clifton sales room in S. Court street, and many entries in all classes were received.

The club deserves much credit for arranging the show, which is open to the public. Entries were received from many amateur exhibitors, other than garden club members. Judging in the various classes began Thursday afternoon, ribbons being the awards, with the exception of the Sweepstakes prize, which will be given the exhibitor scoring the greatest number of points. The exhibit includes displays of oriental poppies, peonies, both double and single, pyrethrums, columbines, German and Siberian iris, delphiniums, roses and flowering shrubs. Prizes will be given also for artistic arrangements of various kinds of flowers and miniature arrangements, approximately five inches wide and seven inches high. Admission is free.

The show began at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and continues until 9 p. m. It opens Friday at 10 a. m. and closes at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Sensenbrenner Hostess

Mrs. Marion Sensenbrenner, of E. Mound street, was hostess to the members of her auction bridge club, Wednesday evening. All members were present for the game. JURY TO STUDY DEATH CHARGES IN JERSEY CASE

State Demands Chair For Boy, Girl Arrested For Woman's Slaying

ARGUMENTS SCHEDULED

Hatchet Murder Denied By Young Couple

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 27. —(UP)—A blue ribbon jury hears today the final appeals of Gladys MacKnight, 17, and Donald Wightman, 19, who want to escape the electric chair for the hatchet murder of Gladys' mother—a crime the former sweethearts blame on each other.

R. Lewis Kennedy will address the jurors first in behalf of the thin-lipped high school girl who charged that Donald struck her mother in the kitchen of the MacKnight home on July 31, 1936. Kennedy is expected to ask Judge Thomas F. Meaney to throw out indictments charging first degree murder on the ground that the state failed to prove premeditation.

Donald's appeal will be made by his attorney, George T. Vickers, who failed yesterday in two attempts to obtain a directed verdict. Vickers told the judge that "not one scintilla of evidence had been produced that the crime was a wilful, felonious, and with malice aforethought, murder."

Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan will demand conviction of both defendants, with death as the penalty. The jurors may also bring in a verdict of second degree murder, which carries a penalty of 30 years; manslaughter, one to 10 years; or acquittal. There is also the possibility of split verdicts, conviction for Gladys, acquittal for Donald—or vice versa.

Donald, half-sobbing and near collapse, was subjected to a forceful cross-examination yesterday, which failed to shake his story that he was merely an innocent bystander when Gladys hacked her mother to death following a quarrel over a late dinner that delayed a tennis match.

EASEMENTS PAID

Payments to $2,379.53 for easements on county roads 19 and 30, the Five Points-South Bloomfield and the Fairfield-South Bloomfield roads, respectively, will be made Saturday. These roads have been taken over by the state. Some easements have been paid, and others are still to be settled. Five farmers along the Old Tarlton road were paid $45.50 for land appropriated for improvements on curves.

DUFFY'S OPINION

COLUMBUS, May 27 — (UP)—Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, in an opinion to the state superintendent of building and loan associations, today held that the constitutional amendment repealing double liability of stockholders in banks and building and loan associations effective July 1, will have no effect on the double liability of stockholders of such institutions which are now closed and in liquidation.

COMMENCEMENTS END TERMS FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS

Pickaway county's commencements closed Wednesday night with exercises in the Methodist church at Five Points and at Commercial Point.

H. H. Maynard, of the college of commerce of Ohio State university, spoke at the Monroe township commencement in Five Points. Highlights of his address were applications of business principles to proper living. About 300 attended the commencement. County Superintendent George McDowell presented diplomas to the ten graduates.

A capacity crowd attended the Scioto township program. L. W. Reese, superintendent of the Washington C. H. public schools, delivered the address. The Scioto township Parent-Teachers association will hold the annual basket picnic at noon, Friday, the last day of school. The alumni reunion will be held Saturday night.

About 50 Scioto township juniors and seniors and a few other classes will take a sight-seeing trip to Washington, D. C., May 31 to June 7. Mrs. Ethel Fortune will chaperon the trip. The classes have pooled proceeds from various activities to finance the trip.

COMPENSATION SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, May 27 — (UP)—Suit was filed in the supreme court today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy to compel State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to pay Donald Power of Columbus, $5,500 for his services as special counsel for the state in the recent Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate case before the U. S. supreme court. Ferguson has declined payment of the fee on the ground that Power's work in the case has not been completed.

The farewell to arms seems as long drawn out as a 19-year-old suitor's goodbye.

TEMPTING MENUS

Automatic Cookery

Cookery without worry becomes automatic, but automatic in the sense of carefree rather than disinterested when we use modern services to help us. An automatic refrigerator has so many qualifying uses that we waste our resources unless we take advantage of them.

Main course dishes to be prepared ahead of time save last minute rushes for luncheons and dinners. A short final cooking for a dish such as Spinach au Gratin or Scalloped Salmon makes a meal easy and simple. The white sauce called for in these two recipes is made by using 1 C. milk, 2 Tbsp. flour and 2 Tbsp. butter.

Spinach au Gratin

- 2 C. cooked spinach
- 3 hard cooked eggs
- 1 C. white sauce
- Bread crumbs
- Grated cheese

Put a layer of spinach in bottom of greased baking dish. Add a layer of sliced eggs. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Pour some sauce over layers of spinach and egg. Add more spinach, egg, seasonings, sauce and top with crumbs mixed with a little grated cheese. Place in refrigerator until mealtime. Then bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes, or until thoroughly heated through.

Scalloped Salmon

- 1 C. white sauce
- 1½ C. cold flaked salmon
- 1 Tbsp. chopped green pepper
- ¼ tsp. paprika
- 1 C. soft bread crumbs

To the hot white sauce add salmon, green pepper and paprika. Mix well. Put in greased ramekins or a large baking dish. Sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Place in refrigerator until mealtime. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes, or until crumbs are brown.

Vegetal Ring Salad

For guests or a family dinner a novel salad has appeal.

- 1 Tbsp. gelatine
- ¼ C. cold water
- ½ C. boiling water
- 3 Tbsp. vinegar
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- ½ C. sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ C. diced celery
- 1 C. shredded cabbage
- 1 C. cooked peas

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt and vegetables and mix thoroughly. Turn into a ring mold which has been dipped into cold water. Chill. Remove from mold to salad plate. Fill center with crisp lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. Thin slices of cold cooked meats may be arranged around the jelly ring.

Chocolate Refrigerator Cookies
A midday nibble or a cookie-jar filler are suitable purposes for Chocolate Refrigerator Cookies.

- ¼ C. shortening
- ¼ C. sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ¼ C. evaporated milk
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1½ C. pastry flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
- ½ C. finely chopped nuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Fift the dry ingredients and add half of this mixture to the first mixture. Add melted chocolate and nuts and the rest of the flour. Form into a roll 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and chill for 2 hours in refrigerator. Slice thin. Bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 25 cookies.

LOG MILLION YEARS OLD

FIFTY TO RIDE MOUNTAIN TRAIL

BANFF, Alberta (UP)—Mouna Assiniboine, long known as the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies, will be the objective of the annual five-day ride from Banff starting July 30 and ending Aug. 3. The trip, arranged by the band of outdoor enthusiasts known as the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, will be headed by their new president, R. H. Palenske, of Chicago.

Riding trail by day and sleeping under canvas at night, the group will spend two nights in the camp at the base of the 12,000-foot mountain, with plenty of extra time for fishing in nearby Marvel Lake or for hiking.

This adventure will set out along Brewster Creek for Brewster Camp, where the first night will be spent, and then continues to Mt. Assiniboine, remaining there the next two nights. The fourth day's trek is through the Simpson Range and over the 7,000-foot Simpson Pass to Sunshine Camp. On the following morning the group follows Healy Creek into the Borgeau Range for the annual Pow-Wow before reentering Banff. The party will consist of 50 riders, plus a crew of guides, cooks, horse-wranglers and a pack train of 50 horses to carry camping gear and supplies.

The Trail Riders' membership of more than 1,200 is scattered on all the five continents, and includes representatives of the arts, professional and business worlds. Ramsay MacDonald and the ex-King and Queen of Siam are active members.

Long known as the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies, Mt. Assiniboine (11,870 ft.) probably was seen in 1841 by the early explorer Sir George Simpson, and later named for the tribe of Assiniboine or Stoney Indians who inhabit the region. The mountain's first accredited visitor was R. L. Barrett, who reached it in 1893 under the guidance of the late Tom Wilson of Banff. The first to climb this peak was Sir James Ostrum, who in 1901 stood on its summit, looked down its sheer wall to the shining glacier 6,000 feet below and counted a dozen lakes in the ranges that stretched before him. A dozen years ago the peak was scaled by Harry Pollard, Canadian photographer and charter member of the Trail Riders. Its most recent conquest was made in 1934 by young Miss Georgia Engelhard of New York, also a member of the Trail Riders and member of the American Alpine Club.

BLOOD PRESSURE FOUND AFFECTED BY TWO GLANDS

ST. LOUIS (UP)—High blood pressure is due to a lack of balance between the sympathetic system governing the circulation of the blood and the energy-controlling adrenal and thyroid glands, according to Dr. George W. Crile, one of the founders of the Cleveland Clinic.

TEXAS TOMATO WILL FEATURE FETE OF MAY 30

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (UP)—The East Texas tomato growing area, producing one of the largest tomato crops in the world, will celebrate its annual festival here May 31, June 1 and 2. The tomato show will highlight National Tomato Week, May 30 to June 5.

The finest tomatoes from all growing sections of the country will be exhibited at the show, the official title of which is the Fourth Annual Jacksonville Tomato Show and Festival.

More than 75 counties and shipping points of the Texas tomato crop will send entries to the exhibition.

While tomato growers vie for prizes, beautiful girls from 55 cities of East Texas will compete for the title of 1937 Tomato Queen.

Attending the queen will be princesses from the 55 Texas cities and girls representing half a dozen neighboring states.

Twenty-three bands will play; floats, the Tomato Queen and her entourage, marching school children and other delegations will make up a colorful parade. City, county and state officials will study marketing methods and improvements of the Texas tomato crop.

For entertainment, the show will provide the Queen's coronation, a folk festival and Tomati-Gro, a night given over to masquerade and street dancing.

College of Physicians meeting here that a close relation between the two is found in all animals and in man.

He said the relation exists because the glands, in speeding up oxidation and increasing energy through a substance poured into the blood stream, create a demand for an increased supply of atmospheric oxygen brought to the tissues by the blood stream. Relief from high blood pressure consequently may be obtained by reducing the activity of either the glands or the sympathetic system, depending upon which is the offending mechanism.

Dr. Crile reported that in 84 operations, high blood pressure had been reduced by first reducing activity of the sympathetic system. However, he said further observation of the patients would be necessary before a final judgment on the value of the operations could be made.

BEAUTY BATHS AID PRIZE HOGS

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (UP)—A little knowledge about beauty culture has aided Lester and Louis Dyer, Fond du Lac county youths, in making a success of raising Poland China hogs.

Since 1931, when their father, Eugene Dyer, a farmer, gave them two pigs, the boys have made $1,000 through application of scientific methods in breeding show animals. They have won 150 state and county fair ribbons, 90 of them for first places.

Frequent baths with tar soap and a scrub brush make better hogs, they say. Twice a month during the summer their prize animals must be placed in a small crate and bathed. Before the fairs and livestock shows open, the animals receive five weekly scrubbings with olive oil to make them appear well-groomed and sleek.

Lester a high school sophomore, plans to enter 22 animals in 7 county fairs, the state fair and

the Mississippi Valley fair at Davenport, Ia., this summer. Louis, two years older than Lester, proudly exhibits two trophies he has won, merchandise prizes and one of 10 honor achievement pins presented by the state.

Together, the youths have raised 200 hogs from the original two their father gave them and four which they bought. They have taken in $1,590, of which $590 went for expenses. Last year, six of the Dyer animals won places at the Wisconsin state fair.

PRESBYTERIANS MEET TO ELECT NEW MODERATOR

Dr. Henry B. Master First To Speak As Delegates Meet in Columbus

DR. FOULKES MENTIONED

Trend Expected Toward New Conservatism

COLUMBUS, May 27.—(UP)—The 149th. general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., representing some 2,000,000 American church-goers, opened its seven-day session here today with ceremonies closely resembling those of the Presbyterian church in Scotland after which it was patterned.

Nine hundred "commissioners," or representatives to the "little U. S. Congress," listened to the opening sermon of Dr. Henry B. Master, Philadelphia, general secretary of the board of pensions and retiring moderator. The rite of the Lord's Supper followed.

To Elect Moderator

Principal business on today's agenda was the election of a new moderator to preside over this year's assembly and serve as head of the important general council, the ad interim body, for the coming year.

Most prominently mentioned for the post was Dr. William H. Foulkes, Newark, N. J., regarded as a conservative member of the church. It is understood he has strong support among the more liberal elements.

Other probable nominees included Dr. Francis S. Downs, Berkeley, Cal., who is said to be conservative enough to satisfy the fundamentalist elements adhering to a strict liberal interpretation of the Bible; Dr. James A. Kelso, Indianapolis, president of the Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh, and Dr. S. Willis McKelvey, Kansas City.

It was understood Dr. McKelvey wished to withdraw from the race but commissioners from his area have insisted he remain in the running.

Some commissioners believed the trend of this year's assembly would be toward conservatism, principally as a reaction to the liberal-fundamentalist controversy which reached a climax several years ago with a minor split between the two elements.

It was generally conceded Philadelphia would be chosen as the 1938 assembly site in commemoration of the founding of the assembly in that city in 1770 with a membership of less than 100,000 congregants.

Limouze Speaks

In a speech bringing to an end the two-day pre-assembly evangelical conferences last night, Dr. Arthur H. Limouze, New York City, secretary of the board of national missions and chairman of the general council's executive committee on United Promotion, branded the present-day church as "conventional, content and often lacking conviction."

"Modern life has had a pulite way of banishing God from its various circles of interest," he said. "This polite bowing of God out of the picture has been made possible further by an education that has been more concerned with going on a production basis and for a materialistic end than for the realization of a great purpose of being the instruments of God in creating a Christlike world."

In his opening sermon, Dr. Masters termed the achievements of Christian foreign missionaries as "so amazing as to be almost incredible."

He cited an increase of Christian converts in India from 100 in 1834 to about 6,000,000 today.

Dr. Master said Christianity "is not a religion at all" but rather "God's revelation of how all men everywhere may find him." A religion, on the other hand, is "the record of man's search for God," he said.

NAZIS SUSPEND PLANT PRINTING CATHOLIC NEWS

BERLIN, May 27.—(UP)—A printing plant at Essen at which more than 200 different Roman Catholic church papers are published was closed today and the papers were banned indefinitely.

News of the action by Nazi authorities was received coincident with announcement that Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Germany's leading polemic orator, would speak before a mass meeting tomorrow night in reply to the recent criticism of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler by Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.

Thousands of Nazis will mass at the sports palace to hear Goebbels speak at 2 p. m. (EST).

There have been many indications of Nazi anger at the cardinal's speech, referring to Hitler as "an Austrian paperhanger and a darn poor one at that," and it was believed Goebbels's speech might be a strong one even for him.

Goebbels is minister for propaganda and public enlightenment. His denunciations of Nazis' enemies have brought him world publicity by their vigor.

MEETINGS HELD TO ARRANGE FOR 1938 FARM PLAN

COLUMBUS, May 27.—Plans to have Ohio farmers make suggestions for the 1938 agricultural conservation program will be completed at a meeting in Columbus, May 27 and 28.

Members of the state committee, extension workers from Ohio State University, and field workers who have been assisting county boards in the administration of the 1937 program will attend the Columbus meeting. Meetings in each Ohio county will follow the state meeting.

County committeemen and farmers who attend the county meetings will be asked to make suggestions for improving the agricultural conservation program next year. The ideas advanced in each state will be summarized after all county meetings have been held and will be sent to Washington for possible inclusion in future programs.

Meetings also will be held in each of the states included in the same group as Ohio. Agricultural problems in this group of states are quite similar and Indiana or Illinois farmers may have suggestions which will be valuable in Ohio.

AT THE CLIFTONA

When a girl believes she has lost the affection of the man she loves she can hardly be blamed for resorting to a ruse to win him back, according to the picturization of Sir James Barrie's famous play "Quality Street" which opens Friday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Katherine Hepburn portrays an English girl in love with a young doctor who is drawn into the for ten years. When Franchot Tone, as the doctor, returns he finds that the vivacious young girl he left behind has been transformed into a prim school teacher. Thinking his love for her cooled, she tries to win back his love with a masquerade that, strangely, fools her more than it does him.

The charm of the Barrie play is picturized by Katherine Hepburn and Franchot Tone as the romantic pair. They are aided by Fay Bainter, Eric Blore, Cora Witherspoon, Estelle Winwood, Helena Grant, Florence Lake, Bonita Granville, William Bakewell, Joan Fontaine and others. "Quality Street" is a Pandro S. Berman production for RKO Radio, directed by George Stevens.

AT THE CIRCLE

His need for a day's salary proved to be the making of Benny Baker, robust comedian, so far as motion pictures were concerned.

Baker has an important role in Paramount's new farce, "Millions in the Air," based on the production of a radio amateur hour, at the Circle Theatre.

"For five months," the comedian said, "I walked the streets of Hollywood unable to get a day's work. Then came the call for one day's work in 'Love in Bloom' at Paramount.

AT THE GRAND

The story of a girl, who scorned the man she loved, risked her career and reputation to defend a backwoods girl facing death as a father-killer, is told in "Career Woman" at the Grand Thursday evening. Claire Trevor plays the leading role.

P. G. A. TOURNAMENT CONTINUES WITH 16 SURVIVORS AT PITTSBURGH

SHUTE TO PLAY BIG ED DUDLEY IN SECOND FRAY

Elimination of Sarazen, MacFarlane, Watrous, Armour Noted
NO FAVORITE ADVANCED Course Makes Endurance Test of Match

By HENRY McEMORE
PITTSBURGH, May 27—(UP)—Sixteen survivors of the Alpine expedition being conducted under the name of the Professional Golfers Association championship gathered today on the starting peak with your guess of the ultimate winner as good as mine.
With two eighteen hole rounds behind them, the players began the first of the 36 hole leaps which will bring one man to the heights Sunday night at the conclusion of the toughest of all tournaments.
There never has been a golf championship in this country which placed such a premium on physical fitness as the current P. G. A. It is a steady climb from first green to the home hole, and the leg-weary veterans such as Sarazen, MacFarlane, Watrous and Armour lost their wind and their hopes in yesterday's matches.
The lean and leathery hunches are still climbing and even the bookmakers couldn't pick a favorite. So they threw all the names into a hat and said the odds are eight to one and make your pick.

Shute Versus Dudley
A glance at the pairing sheet explained why they could not separate the sheep from the goats. There were no goats. In the first match of the day the defending champion Denny Shute met Ed Dudley, who came to competitive life again in a fine showing along the winter tournament route. It was 50-50. So was the No. 2 match which pitted Paul Runyan against Jimmy Hines.
The others were no easier to call. Horton Smith and Henry Picard, for example. Do you fancy the greatest putter in the game, Smith, or the mechanical assassin, Picard? If that's too much, choose between Harold (Jug) McSpaden, or Sammy Sneed, who came rolling 'round the mountains of West Virginia to write his name in large, red letters on the roster of the elect.
Another match that would demand a roulette croupier to call is the one that brings into conflict Byron Nelson, the young medalist, and wily old Johnny Farrell, who won a National open the hard way by beating Bobby Jones.
Having made your selections from the preceding offerings, try deciding between Harry Cooper and Jim Foulis, the youngster who knocked out Gene Sarazen; Ky Laffoon and Jimmy Thomson; and Tony Manero, the national open champion, and Vic Ghezzi.
That's what the P. G. A. tournament offered today.

YESTERDAY'S HERO—Vernon (El Goofy) Gomez, Yankee southpaw, who stole a base, hit a single, fanned six men, walked none and blanked Detroit, 7-0, in scoring his fifth triumph.

HOPES BRIGHTER FOR COCHRANE'S EARLY RECOVERY

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—A slight improvement in the condition of Mickey Cochrane, seriously injured with a triple skull fracture from being hit by a pitched ball Tuesday, increased hopes for his recovery today.
If complications such as meningitis or an infected sinus do not develop within the next 48 hours, his chances for complete recovery will be enhanced greatly, it was reported.
The Detroit catcher-manager was hit in the fifth inning of Tuesday's game on the right temple by a ball thrown by Irving (Bump) Hadley. X-rays showed one fracture almost completely circling his head, another connected with one of the sinuses, and a third branching off to the left side.
The last hospital bulletin saying "there is no change" followed one last night which said: "Mr. Cochrane is improving slowly. Signs of cerebral concussion are less, but he still faces the possibility of infection of the sinuses and secondary meningitis."

BRADDOCK TOLD TO FIGHT MAXIE OR LOSE TITLE
NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock was ordered today to return to New York state by Saturday and complete his training for a title defense against Max Schmeling June 3 under a possible threat by the New York Athletic commission to vacate his title, if he ignores the edict.
Braddock is training at Grand Beach, Michigan, to fight Joe Louis in Chicago June 22, and "much too busy" to come to New York, his Manager Joe Gould, said. In ordering Braddock and Gould to return, the commission made no mention of penalties, but most boxing observers agreed that the ruling athletic body had no alternative except to vacate the championship and name Schmeling as No. 1 challenger, or lose its last vestige of prestige.
Commission Chairman John J. Phelan refused to discuss the possibilities of Braddock's refusal to comply with orders sent yesterday in a telegram.
"Old Dad has nothing against the fellow. He just hates to have daughter think any other man a wonder."

RED BIRDS WIN ON SLAUGHTER'S BLOW IN TENTH

Rookie Outfielder Sends King Over Plate To Take 4-3 Contest

KANSAS CITY VICTIM

Rizzo Continues to Smack Ball For Safeties

COLUMBUS, May 27—Tuesday night, it was Johnny Rizzo who broke up a ball game with a late inning blow. Wednesday night, Enos Slaughter, another first year man, drove a ball to the centerfield fence to plate Lynn King with the winning margin over the Kansas City Blues.
The hit came in the last half of the tenth inning, the fray ending 4-3.
Rizzo continued his great hitting, driving out two hits, a single and a triple. That makes 36 games in a row in which the outfielder has singled safely.
Southpaw Max Macon was on the mound when the end came, thus receiving credit for the victory, although Bill McGhee hurled the greater part of the tilt. John Niggeling was the Kasey hurler.

Delroy Has Role
Then there's Frankie Delroy... mechanic for Wild Bill Cummings... Frankie comes up to the races this year with a brand new idea... it's "holding hands" a driver's hands get very tired after a couple of hundred miles of that grind... so Frankie takes Bill's hands (one at a time!) and rubs the circulation back... he figures it's not too dangerous to do the rubbing while the car is on the straightaway.
Frankie who weighs no more than a jockey (112 pounds) said he conceived the idea while Cummings was setting that record in the recent qualifying trials... he noticed Bill holding up a hand in the stretch in an effort to relieve a cramped muscle.
Frankie had some other things to think about, too, while Cummings was setting that record... on the third lap, going through a turn, the gear shift of Wild Bill's mound jumped out for a minute and he slid down near the safety apron... Frankie slid down into the "cellar" and held the gear shift in place while Bill hit the last lap for 125.129 miles an hour for a world record... a bit of vibration?... yeah, but these Indianapolis grease-balls do not mind that...

NEW YORK NINES MAY BE PITTED IN SERIES PLAY

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—The billing for baseball's big October circus again may be "See the world series on a nickel."
The New York Yankees are digging in for a long stay in first place in the American league and the Giants are on a whirlwind tour of the West which may land them atop the National league before June 1. The way Gotham's teams are going now they certainly resemble the two clubs to beat just as the "experts" said they would be in the Spring forecasts.
On recent form the Yanks appear booked for another flag. The Yanks have a 6-game winning streak intact and a three-game lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians. Right now the American league battle is for second place between the Indians, Tigers and Athletics.
The Giants, who are having one of their best western trips in years, rolled on to their fifth straight victory yesterday and narrowed Pittsburgh's lead to a game and a half. The Pirates, who have dropped their last three games, were idle yesterday.
The Yanks scored their second shutout in two days when Lefty Gomez blanked the Tigers, 7-0. In scoring his fifth victory Gomez fanned six and issued no passes. Selkirk and Lazzeri hit homers in the Yanks' 13-hit attack.

SPOTTED FEVER WANES
HAMILTON, Mont. (UP)—Spotted fever is rapidly being spotted out in the Bitter Root valley as a result of WPA projects in Ravalli county. Six new dipping vats were erected to replace the old, dilapidated ones. The vats, built last summer and fall, were put to wide use this spring.

OPINION COSTS $4
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—It cost an Ardmore, Pa., man $4 to express an opinion. Andrew Beck, 34, tapped a patrolman on the shoulder in the early morning hours and said: "Officer, I don't like the way you walk." A magistrate decided a $4 fine would suffice.

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRAUCHER
Grease-Balls Important

Mechanics at Indianapolis are an unhonored legion... they're just the guys who go along for a ride... 500 miles around that red hot speedway at an average at better than 100 miles an hour... How would you like to sit there beside a fellow hitting that kind of speed with cars whizzing along on both sides of you?... the gent who has the wheel, of course, knows where he is going, and what he is doing or trying to do... but the grease-ball beside him just sits tight, wondering, hoping it's all going to be all right, holding his breath perhaps at times, squeezing his shoulders together when the racing room narrows down to a tight squeak.
It isn't all just sitting, to be sure... if it were, mechanics would be goofier than they are, I guess... but there are a lot of things to do... some of them impossible things... and the tasks sometimes pile up all at once, and a guy has to get going in a nervous sweat...

Of Johnny Pawl

Last year Johnny Pawl hitchhiked from Morrisville, Pa., and crashed into the race as mechanic for Fred Frame... Frame lasted only three laps when his crankshaft broke... Johnny stayed around the pits, hoping some other driver would come along and call for a mechanic... finally he got back in the seat with Cliff Bergere... and they tore around the oval for 106 miles... then the gas ran out, and while Bergere tinkered with the engine, Johnny dashed to the pits for a can of gas... with the precious fuel, he was on his way back to the stranded car when he saw Al Miller's car spin on the bricks, throwing the driver out onto the track.
Some lads might not have known what to do... but Johnny did... instinctively he rushed over to the driver, picked him up and dragged him out of the pathway of following machines... then he dashed back to his gas and sprinted to Bergere's car... late, but a hero... Johnny received the 1936 award for sportsmanship...

CONTRACT BRIDGE

NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE NOTHING IS impossible in bridge, or at least almost nothing. The player who finds himself in a terribly overbid contract in the wrong suit still may make it if he calculates just what distribution of the opposing cards would serve his purpose and then plan his action based on that situation.

Here was a case where Morgan Howard, bridge leader of San Francisco, found himself in a 7-Spade contract into which an over-enthusiastic partner had pushed him. When West led a small diamond, Mr. Howard studied the dummy in conjunction with his own hand.

His job was to prevent the loss of a solitary trick, though the Q-J-10-9 and 4 of trumps were out against him. Apparently no possible distribution of the adverse spades could permit the grand slam to be made. However, courage is born of desperation. True experts never say die.

There was one chance in many millions, after West's lead of a small diamond, that, having seven hearts between them, the left-hand opponent would hold six hearts, leaving a singleton on the right; that the right-hand adversary would trump the second heart honor with the spade 4 and that the remaining four trumps would be divided. All of these things eventuated. Mr. Howard, of course, overruffed East's spade 4 with his own 7, dropped the other trumps with the Ace and King, and thus negotiated "a slam which cannot be made".

Future Of Youth Work In County In Balance

Renick W. Dunlap, of Kingston, was appointed Thursday by Dwight Steele, president of the Kiwanis club, a campaign chairman for the annual sustaining membership appeal for the Boy Scout movement in the Pickaway county district. The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the drive this year in behalf of the community.

Dunlap, who is a member of the Kiwanis club, in addition to being active in scouting as chairman of the troop committee of the Kingston Presbyterian church unit, Troop No. 5, is also a member of the executive board of the Central Ohio Area Council.

Other to Assist

Other Kiwanians will head sub-committees for the drive. They will be announced soon. Scouters and others generally interested in youth work will assist Kiwanians in the campaign.

The campaign, which seeks to raise $600 to maintain scout work in Circleville and the Pickaway district, will open with a breakfast for all workers next Wednesday morning. Previous to this, efforts will be made by a special committee to obtain initial gifts from a select group of individuals and firms.

Co-operating committees in the district which will assist in the campaign include Ashville, Williamsport, and Kingston.

Scouting, now in its twenty-seventh year in this country, is a leisure time program of character building and citizenship training activities designed to supplement the church, home and school. Any boy, 12 years of age or over, may become a scout.

board of trustees, and S. R. Finley, Columbus, electrical engineer, were in Washington recently conferring with officials of the Rural Electrification Administration and boosting the project.

740 Miles Listed

The project, including Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties, includes construction of about 740 miles of rural lines, to service 3,138 homes at a total cost of $722,292.

Under plans announced when the maps and the project survey were submitted to Washington, the district had been divided into four divisions to facilitate construction.

Pickaway county was divided into two parts, Harry Montelius, county manager, explained. One section of the county includes Pickaway, Saltcreek, Circleville, Washington and parts of Walnut townships and Clearcreek, Hocking, Madison and Amanda townships of Fairfield county. In the western section are all townships of the county lying west of the river.

Reports by Montelius show 167.5 miles of lines in the eastern section and 160 miles in the west. The estimated cost for the eastern section, including service to 699 homes, is $167,556. Cost of construction in the western section, where 650 homes are listed for service, is $154,452.

The remainder of Fairfield county makes up the third section and Perry county comprises the fourth.

Pickaway county trustees of the organization, in addition to Mr. Steeley, are R. D. Head, Pickaway township and Dewey Downs, Derby.

ble "was deliberately provoked by union officials."

"They feel, with or without justification, that the LaFollette civil liberties committee sympathizes with their aims and they simply want to trump up a charge of Ford brutality to take down to Washington and flaunt before the senatorial committee," he said.

"I know definitely no Ford service men or plant police were involved in any way in the fight. As a matter of fact, the service men had issued instructions that the union people could come and distribute pamphlets at the gates as long as they didn't interfere with employees at work."

The Ford service chief insisted that the union men were beaten by regular Ford employees who were on their way to work on the afternoon shift.

ment of a temporary drought committee, said the situation in eight or ten states is increasingly critical.

M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of agriculture, took charge of relief preparations as head of the special committee. Wallace said that unless the drought is broken soon the committee will be made permanent.

The new drought does not cover as large an area as in 1934 or 1936, but in the area affected is more severe, agriculture officials said.

Western congressmen, alarmed by the prospect of a crop failure in an area extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Missouri valley and from Canada to Texas, have appealed to Wallace to support demands for a $1,000,000,000 drought relief appropriation.

trouble convincing them that the union framed and planned the disturbance," Bennett said.

Richard T. Frankenstein and Walter Reuther headed the group of union organizers who went to Ford's River Rouge plant yesterday to distribute union literature to thousands of homeward-bound workmen. The union is attempting to enlist support for its campaign to force Ford to recognize it as collective bargaining agency for his workers. His assembly plant at Richmond, Calif., has been closed by a strike of union members who demanded a six-hour day at once, are centered mostly in Cleveland, Youngstown and other cities of northeastern Ohio's "Little Ruhr" and in the Chicago area. Chairman Philip Murray of the C. I. O.'s steel workers organizing committee and other union leaders claimed a great majority of the workers had joined the strike.

Independent surveys indicated about 62,450 men were on strike or forced into idleness by closing of the mills. The companies announced no figures, but scattered plants still were operating.

All Plants Guarded

At the day-shift hour today most of the three companies' plants were patrolled by brawny pickets. Many carried clubs, bricks and baseball bats. The plants were strongly guarded.

The Republic Corporation said it still was operating its Truscon plant in Cleveland, as well as one in Canton, O., one in Warren, O., one in Niles, O., and one in South Chicago, Ill., in which 400 cots were installed for workers off duty.

Three other Republic plants in Cleveland, one in Youngstown, four in Canton, two in Massillon, one in Elyria, O., and one in Buffalo, N. Y., were among those closed.

So were the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company's plants in Youngstown and the Chicago area. The Inland companies major mills in the Chicago area were shut.

Police at Canton reported the first serious casualty of the strike occurred early today when Franklin P. Manly, 32, a foreman at the

Berger Manufacturing company, was shot as he ran toward the entrance of the plant.

Frank K. Urchov, 29, a company guard, was held on a charge of "shooting with intent to wound" after he admitted firing at Manly with a shotgun.

The foreman, hospitalized with wounds in both hands and both legs, said he had "started to work" and "was shot by someone from ambush." Hospital authorities said his condition was not serious.

Scattered disorders and instances of violence were reported. Chicago police, enforcing orders against mass picketing, held 21 men for investigation, including John V. Riffe, a director of the steel workers organizing committee. A Republic employee at Youngstown was injured slightly when he attempted to pass through the picket lines. Three men were beaten at Warren, O.

The strike began yesterday when workers walked out of six Republic plants at Canton and Massillon, O. Union leaders said the men there "spontaneously" jumped the gun.

Rural Electrification Project To Start Soon

FAIRFIELD TO BE FIRST

Larger Appropriation To Be Made in New Budget

Wholesale power for the lines in Pickaway and Fairfield counties will be purchased for an average of 1.35 cents per kilowatt hour from the Ohio Midland Light and Power Co., Canal Winchester. Power for the Perry county branch of the project will be purchased from the Ohio Power Co.

Federal appropriation of $105,000 to the South Central Rural Electric Co-operative Association, which includes Pickaway county, was announced Thursday by Marvin Steeley, Washington township, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Steeley said he was notified of the appropriation by Derwin Kinder, of near Pickerington, manager of the Fairfield county branch of the project.

The appropriation was made from the 1936 budget, Steeley said, and additional funds are expected to be appropriated after July 1 when the 1937 allotments will be made.

To Start in Fairfield

Steeley believes the tri-county project will open in Fairfield county as field surveys have been completed there. The Fairfield county branch of the project is the strongest, having more prospective consumers per mile.

RIFFLE GIRL, 3, SERIOUSLY HURT BY CULTPACKER

Bessie, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Riffle, who reside on the Weaver farm near Thatcher, suffered a severe wound on the left side of her head Wednesday when she fell under a cultpacker being operated by an older brother.

Two stitches were required to close the wound. X-rays will probably be taken Thursday to determine if the skull is punctured. The child was returned to her home although her condition is serious.

Three of the Riffle children were on the cultpacker, being drawn by a team, when Bessie fell off.

A cultpacker is used to crush clods of dirt.

DISNEY TO ATTEMPT DIMENSIONAL MOVIES

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—(UP)—Walt Disney announced today that his next release of comic cartoons will be in three-dimensional photography, giving the appearance of depth that is lacking on the flat screen.

Under the Disney process no special lenses are needed. The camera "shoots" the various backgrounds and figures through three moving celluloid strips at different distances from the lens.

Disney will be the first producer to try the new development.

Clyde Weaver Arrested By Sheriff, Deputy; Another Caught

The sheriff's department and police opened a drive on operators of the "number" racket Wednesday afternoon making two arrests in which fines totalling $450 were imposed.

Clyde R. Weaver, negro, E. Corwin street, was fined $400 and costs, by Common Pleas Judge J. W. Adkins when he admitted a charge of selling numbers. His account was paid.

Weaver was arrested by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver on Route 23 about six miles north of the city. The officers confiscated a small portable safe used for keeping numbers.

Steve Thuransky, 45, of near Obetz Junction, was arrested by Police Chief William McCrady and Officer Fred Fitzpatrick on Maplewood avenue. He was fined $100 and costs by Mayor W. J. Graham. The mayor suspended $50 of the fine. Thuransky paid and was released. Officers charged he was a "pick up" man in the "number" game.

HOOVER ORDERS SPECIAL AGENTS ON BRADY TRAIL

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(UP)—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation today revealed he had ordered a special squad of federal agents to aid the search for three members of an Indiana bandit gang.

The men, Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., Alfred Brady and James Dahlover, reportedly shot State Policeman Paul Minneman at Logansport, Ind.

Federal charges pending against the gang were filed in connection with the alleged interstate transportation from Lima, O., to Chicago, Ill., on April 27, of stolen jewelry valued at $12,000.

The men also were sought in connection with the deaths of Sergeant Richard Rivers, of the Indianapolis police April 27, 1936, and of Edward Lindsey, Piqua, O., killed during the jewel robbery.

INJURIES FATAL TO CYCLIST HIT BY BURTON CAR

Injuries received last Sunday when he was thrown from his motorcycle in a collision with the automobile of Gene Burton, E. Franklin street, caused the death early Thursday of Edmond Demorest, 57, of Columbus.

The accident occurred at Highland street and Fifth avenue, Columbus.

Demorest's skull was fractured. He was demontsarting the motorcycle, belonging to his son, when the accident happened.

Luigi Nardella, 45, another Columbus man, died Wednesday after an accident, making the Columbus death-from-traffic toll 48 since Jan. 1.

WALLACE AT HEARING

Drought Committee Ready To Act in Midwest

CHICAGO, May 27.—(UP)—Traders turned their attention to corn today on the Chicago Board of Trade and July futures climbed four cents a bushel, the one-day trading limit.

July new crop futures touched $1.25 and the old crop futures rose to $1.22 a bushel, both up the limit.

May futures closed out yesterday at the highest price in 12 years and the bullish enthusiasm growing out of this activity induced heavy buying today in July corn.

Wallace Favors Normal Granary

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today asked congress to enact the ever normal granary, production control and price stabilization farm program drafted by major farm organizations.

Appearing before the house agriculture committee, Wallace testified that he agreed with aims of the new farm measure. He suggested several modifications of the measure which proposes production and surplus control of basic farm products.

Wallace was the first administration official to avow open support of the bill.

"I am strongly in favor of principles and purposes of the bill," Wallace said. "It is deserving of immediate consideration in congress and I hope that legislation to carry out aims of this measure will be enacted at the earliest possible date."

Wallace described the aims of the bill as to "safeguard the nation's food supply" and to "protect farm income."

JURORS GATHER TO STUDY BABB AND HART CASES

Supplemental charges defining the elements of the various degrees of murder provided by the laws of Ohio were given county grand jurors Thursday by Judge J. W. Adkins before they started deliberation of two cases.

The jury will consider the shooting of Weldon J. Babb, Perry township farmer, and a statutory offense against Walter Hart, E. Logan street. Officials were uncertain how long the jury's session would last. Seventeen witnesses were called in the two cases. John Teets, 26, Perry township, is being held for investigation in the shooting affair.

Members of the jury are J. O. Eagleson, foreman, Mrs. Harry Moore, Anna Grimes, and G. D. Courtright, city, Delphine Koch and Ira Fischer, Walnut township; Clara Macklin, Saltcreek township; Mrs. Homer Fridley, Harrison township; Norrene Gray and William Phillips, Scioto township; Lenore Wright, Perry township; Marcus Ebenhack, Deer creek township, and Ray Bowman, Washington township.

Chief C. I. O. Organizer Hurt at Ford Plant

RICHARD T. FRANKENSTEIN, chief organizer of the United Automobile Workers union, is seen, right, holding his battered head after he and 20 or 30 other unionists were injured when Ford company employees clashed with the men at Dearborn, Mich. The fighting began when a delegation of approximately 50 unionists arrived at the Ford plant aboard street cars and began distributing union handbills. Frankenstein alleges that the unionists were attacked by members of the Ford service department, who drove them off company property. After the encounter, Frankenstein announced they would file charges against the company, under the Wagner act.

Four Killed As Airplane Burns

SANTA MARIA, Cal., May 27.—(UP)—The bodies of two women and a man, burned beyond recognition in a flaming air crash, were recovered today from the smoldering wreck of a chartered cabin plane. A fourth victim, the pilot, was thrown clear, but killed, when the craft crashed soon after take-off.

Deputy Coroner R. H. Dudley said the victims were:

Harry Emme, Los Angeles, oil man, who chartered the ship.

Mrs. C. W. Whitney, Carmel, Cal., restaurant owner.

Mrs. D. B. Fauntleroy, Carmel, but believed an eastern visitor.

AIR DAY FIXED

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(UP)—President Roosevelt issued a proclamation today naming May 28 as "National Aviation Day."

News Flashes

F. D. R.'S AID ASKED

CHICAGO, May 27.—(UP)—Van A. Bittner, regional director of the steel workers organizing committee, today telegraphed President Roosevelt asking federal investigation of an alleged conspiracy by Republic Steel corporation with "collusion" of high Chicago police officials to violate the Wagner act.

AMERICAN VICTOR

SANDWICH, England, May 27.—(UP)—Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., strengthened America's chances of recapturing the British amateur golf championship today when he marched into the quarterfinal round with a 2-and-1 victory over H. G. Harrison, a virtual unknown, of London.

MARKET IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, May 27.—(UP)—The stock market rallied today after early irregularity. Leading issues registered gains ranging to more than a point. Anaconda directors doubled the dividend and the stock firmed slightly only to recoil on profit-taking. Other coppers were strong with American Smelting at 91 up 1 1/2 and Kennecott at 59 1/2 up 1 1/2.

Two Columbus Negroes To Face Federal Charges Following Arrest

Bootleg whiskey—40 gallons of it—was confiscated and two Columbus negroes were arrested at 2:30 a. m. Thursday when police stopped a suspicious car on N. Court street.

The men arrested were Brown Alsbrook, 52, driver, of 951 Mt. Vernon avenue, and Albert Pryor, 32, of 819 1/2 Buckingham street. Federal authorities were notified about the arrests and were expected in Circleville Thursday evening to take charge of the case.

Patrolman George Green and Carl Radcliff made the arrests. The officers noticed the Ford coupe, in which the men were riding, was low in the rear, and that the tags were wired on. They stopped the car to investigate.

OHIO SALESMAN ADMITS SEEKING DOCTOR'S MONEY

TOLEDO, May 27.—(UP)—Police said today they had obtained from Fred Haddad, 25, automobile salesman, a confession that he extorted $20,000 from Dr. Dayton Pulford, 38, a physician.

Dr. Pulford was quoted by authorities as saying the money was paid by him within 20 months to conceal the fact that he had traffic tickets "fixed."

Haddad was held under $10,000 bail on a technical charge of suspicion. He was taken into custody in Dr. Pulford's office where he allegedly appeared in an effort to get more money.

ROCKEFELLER BURIED

CLEVELAND, May 27.—(UP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was buried in the city of his youth today, in Lake View cemetery between the graves of his wife and mother.

Union's Agents Beaten

DETROIT, May 27.—(UP)—Federal and state authorities studied charges by the United Automobile Workers' union today that Ford Motor company employees were responsible for an attack on union organizers at Henry Ford's Dearborn plant yesterday.

The union placed before Frank Bowen, regional director of the National Labor Relations board, a complaint charging the company with intimidation and coercion in violation of the Wagner act.

Ben Allen, investigator for the senate civil liberties committee headed by Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Prog., Wis., who witnessed the attack, indicated that the committee would review the incident. He said he would issue subpoenas for Harry Bennett, chief of the Ford service department, and other Ford workers, and send a personal account to LaFollette.

"The U. A. W. A. intends to prosecute this case in every possible way and with all vigor and energy," union officials said in a formal statement today. "Today the world has seen the true character of the Ford Motor company. We don't intend that it shall forget it."

Members of A. F. of L.

Bennett denied that his men had participated in the attack. He said the attackers were members of the American Federation of Labor. That was denied by Robert Passage, acting president of the Detroit and Wayne county Federation of labor, who declared:

"The federation has not and does not intend to interfere with any organization work by the United Automobile Workers. We have made no campaign there (at Ford's plant) and we have no members there."

Bennett charged that the trou-

DR. DAFOE WORKS WITH DIONNES TO WIN RADIO TALKS

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27.—(UP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe rehearsed his repertoire of coaxing smiles and phrases today and hoped he would be able to persuade the Dionne quintuplets to speak a few words—in "quintalk" or French—into the microphone.

He was a little dubious as to the success of the international broadcast scheduled for tomorrow, the babies' third birthday. They're unpredictable, he explained.

If Dr. Dafoe's blandishments work, the girls will toddle up to the microphone and address the radio audience. What they will say, however, will depend entirely on their mood. If it is cooperative, they will babble in French, the only orthodox language they know. But they may, Dr. Dafoe warned, speak only in "quintalk"—the mysterious language in which they converse among themselves and which not even their nurses understand.

MacDONALD ENDS LENGTHY SERVICE FOR HIS NATION

LONDON, May 27.—(UP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, retiring from politics after a long and stormy career, had his farewell audience with King George today and was understood to have refused an earldom.

MacDonald visited Buckingham palace to resign as lord president of the council, in preparation for tomorrow's cabinet turnover in which Stanley Baldwin will retire as premier and Neville Chamberlain will succeed him.

The king expressed a desire to honor MacDonald's long service to the state, but the veteran Scot asked and received permission to decline.

THREE FIRMS AFFECTED

Trouble Greatest Since That of U. S. Steel in 1919

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(UP)—The federal government today established direct communication with the steel centers of the Ohio valley where the largest strike in the last mills since 1919 spread through the Youngstown area and northward westward to Chicago.

Secretary of labor Frank Perkins received a lengthy telephonic report on the situation from James F. Doney, commissioner of conciliation, who has been the department's expert on steel labor for more than a decade.

CLEVELAND, May 27—

(UP)—A strike by steel and iron workers affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization against three great "independent" steel companies cooled furnaces and stilled fabricating mills today in two of the country's most important centers of heavy industry.

The strike was called against the Republic Steel Corp., the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., and the Inland Steel Corp., for the sole reason that they have declined to enter into written contracts with the C. I. O. The companies took the stand that such contracts would open the way to the closed shop.

Largest Since 1919

The strike was the largest in the steel industry since the unsuccessful one against the United States Steel Corporation in 1919.

The three companies involved have one-sixth of the industry's total producing capacity and employ 90,000 men. Their northern plants, which alone were affected

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED AFTER FARMER, 35, DIES

Coroner C. E. Bowers returned a verdict of suicide by hanging Thursday in the death of Arthur Porchet, 35, Muhlenberg township farm laborer.

Porchet worked on the farm of James Grant Stinchcomb. He had resided on the place about three years. Ill health was blamed for his act.

Porchet and Charles Riley, 21, also employed on the farm, had been working together early Thursday loading lumber. While Riley was doing some other chores, Porchet went to the hayward and used a rope to take his life.

Riley missing his fellow worker, searched and found the body. He was found about 9:30 a. m.

FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTE TO GEORGE A. FOERST

His scores of friends paid tribute, Wednesday, to George A. Foerst, who died Monday, when funeral services were conducted in the Elks home. The Rev. Herman A. Sayre officiated at the funeral. Burial was in Reber Hill cemetery.

The lodge home was filled by friends, officials of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., and members of the lodge. The officers of the lodge conducted their ritual at the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Sayre's service.

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

William Sark, a life-long resident of the community, died at his home in Ashville Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, following an illness of complications. He was confined to his bed for the last two weeks. He was 72 years of age.

He was a member of Hedges Chapel and a charter member of Nebraska Grange of which he has been a member for 54 years. He also was a member of Ashville Odd Fellows lodge.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Homer and Duval and Harry of Ashville; two daughters, Mrs. Emma Dennis of Ashville, and Mrs. Mary Ett of Walnut township; and a brother, John Sark of Ashville. The deceased was a son of Isaac and Mary Marburger Sark and was born in Bluffton, Ind., December 31, 1866. Two brothers, Samuel and Charles, preceded him in death.

The funeral services will be held at the home in Ashville Saturday at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Boyd Rife of Columbus. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery.

Gregg Losen Bees

Sam Gregg, who has about a million working for him every day, has turned out to be a real bee man. Told you a few days ago about him giving a poor, strange swarm a good home in a modern bee house. Says his little friends are working hard every day and thinks he'll have plenty of honey for sale now soon if the good work goes on. Felt sure he was to have another bee colony added to his already millions of little friends, but he was doomed to disappointment. A wild swarm had "settled" on a little tree near the home of Dr. Hosier and Sam was notified post-haste of this fact and told to get busy and give the tramps a good home. But he made the mistake of first looking 'em over. He won't tell what he said or did, but it was something the king and queen of the big family didn't like, and when Sam came with his nice hive which was to be the home of his good little friends, they had

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

IDA M. ILES, PLAINTIFF, VS. ROBERT R. DRIESBACH, ET AL, DEFENDANTS. COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO.

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said Court to me directed in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on MONDAY, JUNE 10, 1937, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio, and in the Township of Pickaway to-wit:

The east half of Section No. 9, Township No. 10, Range No. 21, W. S. Beginning at the southeast corner of said section, thence with said section line, north 32 1/2 poles to the northeast corner of said section; thence with the section line, west 16 1/2 poles to the northwest corner of said east half of said section, and on to C. R. Driesbach's land; thence with the half section line, and C. R. Driesbach's line, south 1/2 pole to the southwest corner of said east half section; thence with the section line east 16 1/2 poles to the beginning, containing 32 acres of land, more or less.

And, for good cause shown, it is ordered that the land above described be sold at public auction at the time of said sale, and the proceeds of the sale shall be paid to the purchaser at said sale, and go to the purchaser at said sale without cost to him.

Said premises appraised at $63.75 per acre.

Terms of Sale: 20 per cent cash, balance on the delivery of the deed.

Coal Trains Bring Concern

Often wondered about these big, long, coal trains which roll along through Ashville over the N. & W., pulled by a monster engine. What it actually costs to get one of these big loads to where it is going and how much the freight charge for the service may be? Sometimes there are as many as 140 loaded coal cars being dragged along to the north to Toledo, we suspect, because have been told that Toledo has the most extensive coal docks in the world. Even at the moderate freight charge of $100 the car, the whole train load freight cost, amounts to considerable, but when this charge is minused with operating costs, that presents a different picture.

CONNIE MACK, MRS. MCGRAW

Joe Cook will add Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, to the list of show guest stars who have done what experts said could not be done. He will appear in a three-way interview with Cook and Mrs. John J. McGraw, widow of the famed manager of the New York Giants.

Since January, Cook has presented other miracle men of baseball — Babe Ruth, Bob Feller, Carl Hubbell and Dizzy Dean — on his broadcast over the NBC red network at 8:30 p. m. (EST), on Saturday, May 29.

Connie Mack, known for years as "the grand old man of baseball," again entered the "modern miracle men" classification this year with the Athletics. Before the season opened, experts looked over his crop of rookies, pronounced them cellar material. At the time Cook booked Connie Mack, his Athletics were leading the American league.

MCCARTHY GETS LESSON

Charlie McCarthy, the little wooden dummy, is going to take a piano lesson from the distinguished concert artist, Jose Iturbi, in the hour to be broadcast over the NBC red network Sunday, May 30, at 8 p. m. W. C. Fields, Don Ameche, Dorothy Lamour and Musical Director Werner Janssen will all be in the show in addition to Edgar Bergen, the ventriloquist who does the talking for both Charlie and himself, and the guest stars.

W. C. Fields, the newest comedy hit in radio, picks up again where he left off last Sunday with that "piece of Grade B lumber," as he calls Charlie McCarthy.

Where is Albert Everts Wentworth, former Circleville resident who has been missing for 56 years?

A petition as to the presumption of death was filed in probate court Wednesday by Mrs. Gladys W. Beeler, Wooster, and Miss Alice Iola Wentworth, W. Union street, nieces.

The petition says Mr. Wentworth was last heard from in September, 1888. He was a sailor, had traveled throughout the world, and was believed on a ship that sank while making a trip to or from Australia.

Mr. Wentworth owned an undivided interest in three lots estimated to be worth $2,600.

47 Now On Three Tasks Told To Take Private Positions

SMITH SEEKS EMPLOYEES

Difficulty In Obtaining Labor Is Reported

Employment of women at the Esmeralda Canning Co for the spinach pack has caused temporary suspension of women's projects under W. P. A.

Forty-seven women had been employed in Circleville, Williamsport and Ashville on the sewing, clothing renovation and book repair projects. Mrs. Beulah Madison, supervisor, said 16 were on the sewing project, 18 on renovation of clothing and 13 on book repairs. Twenty-seven were employed here and 20 in the villages.

Under W. P. A. regulations the workers must accept private employment when it is offered. If they fail to accept employment they are discharged.

James I. Smith, Jr., of the Esmeralda company, said spinach has been canned at intervals during the last three weeks, and he has experienced difficulty in obtaining workers, especially women. The canning season will last about two weeks. Mr. Smith said the plant will can potatoes in July. Approximately 200 persons are provided employment by the company during the canning season.

In Race for Millions

AMONG those seeking a share in the four or five million-dollar fortune left by the late Edward W. (Daddy) Browning of New York, is Marjorie Brown, above, 21-year-old Columbia university student. Until recently Miss Browning thought she was Browning's real daughter. Then she learned that she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Herbst, and was adopted by Browning's wife Adele. Whether or not Browning was a party to the adoption is the question which will decide Marjorie's participation in the fortune. Adele was cut off without a cent.

NAZIS DEFEATED BY MANY VOTES OF NETHERLANDS

AMSTERDAM, May 27.—(UP)—Netherlands Nazis promised a better showing "next time" today after suffering a crushing defeat in a parliamentary general election by the government coalition parties under Premier Hendrikus Colijn.

Dr. Anton A. Mussert, Nazi leader, had hoped to obtain 10 seats at least of the 100 in the second chamber—corresponding to the house of representatives—but obtained four. His national Socialists received 171,057 of the 4,000,000-odd cast, or about 4.3 percent.

In a speech to his followers, Mussert said: "We have made a mistake. Now we stand alone. Comrades, we have received a hard blow. We will be ridiculed by many. But our spirit is unbroken. We shall continue for the future, to fight at the next election."

On May 28 the Netherlands nation called a forceful halt to the Nazi government.

LAKE SAILBOAT STOLEN
DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—William E. Campbell was proud of his sailboat's good points. But he didn't realize "it would sail so far that I couldn't find it." His boat disappeared from White Rock Lake near Dallas. No trace of it was found. It was the first sailboat ever to disappear from the lake.

"Man is the only animal that makes plans for the future," asserted a Boston psychologist. Apparently the squirrel is just a dilapidated collector.

Children's Birthdays Together
AMESBURY, Mass. (UP)—Barbara, Eleanor and Jean Andrews aren't triplets—but they celebrate their birthday anniversaries the same day. Last May 17, Mr. and Mrs. Percival Andrews presented their daughters with three cakes. Barbara's had 18 candles, Eleanor's 12 and Jean's seven.

And yet, if married people lived in peace, where would the artists get material for comic strips?

JUDGE, YOUTH IN MARBLE TILT; BOY REFORMED

WALTHAM, Mass. (UP)—A wise judge has stooped to a game of marbles and thus conquered stubborn tendencies of an eight-year-old boy.

Because he played hookey and wouldn't mind his parents, the child was brought before District Judge P. Sarsfield Cunniff. He called the judge "sissy" because of his long, black robe, then fell silent.

Judge Cunniff finally found common ground in a discussion of marbles. Later he bought "migs" for a game and the lad won them all.

Now the boy has a new home under state supervision. No more hookey or stubbornness.

Instead, he has confided to the judge, he wants to be a "cop."

ST. LOUIS HOST TO STUNT AND SPEED AIRMEN

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Outstanding world stunt and race pilots converged on St. Louis today for participation in the international aerobatic competition and air

FARMERS TOLD CHEMURGY HELP ISN'T CURE - ALL

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP)—Fear that agriculturists may become too optimistic about development of new commercial uses for farm products was expressed by F. W. Peck, director of agricultural extension and vice-director of agricultural research of the University of Minnesota farm.

There is danger that possibilities in the field of farm chemurgy may be overdone, Peck said. He explained that chemistry at work with farm products has attracted a great deal of attention among industrialists, chemists and farm leaders, but that farmers may rush into production of commodities intended for commercial use but for which no adequate market has been developed. Industry may not be able to pay high enough prices to justify production of such products by farmers, Peck said.

CHURCH HISTORY TOLD IN STAMPS

LA CROSSE, Wis. (UP)—"Little Histories" of Catholicism, the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, child welfare and renowned artists are pictured vividly in the famous collection of stamps assembled by the Rev. Ferdinand Cech of La Crosse.

The arrangement and classification of the stamps has brought Father Cech international attention. With his exhibits, mounted in glass-covered frames, the priest has won many prizes in national contests. Father Cech began collecting stamps as a hobby 30 years ago shortly after he was ordained to portray philately the history of Catholicism. He devotes the most time upon his "Philatelic Litany of the Saints," which reveals historically the honors bestowed upon Saints by countries throughout the world.

Old Masters of art are paid tribute in Father Cech's "The Old Masters in Philately." Another album pictures Catholic buildings throughout the globe, including churches, cathedrals and monasteries.

Father Cech's collections tracing the history of the Boy Scouts, Red Cross and child welfare are not as extensive as those mentioned previously, but they do not lack interest.

The priest has written pictures to go with each of his exhibits. At present, he is writing a book, "Catholic Philately." He is a member of these stamp collectors' organizations: Philatelic Journalists' Association, Footloose Philatelists, American Philatelic Society and the Society of Philatelic Americans.

Relatively minor stamp collections that Father Cech had gathered in recent years concerning animals and birds, etc., he has given to children.

UNIVERSITY HAS 100,000 VOLUMES ON SCANDINAVIA

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—With more than 100,000 volumes in its Scandinavian department library, the University of Minnesota's collection is recognized as the finest library of Scandinavian works in the United States, according to Andrew A. Stromberg, department head.

The university collection is the only one in this country which contains a complete record of proceedings of the governing bodies of Norway, Denmark and Sweden, Stromberg said.

"In the past, Scandinavian students have shown slight interest in the courses our department offered," Stromberg said. "They were too close to the immigration period of their parents. As they became more widely separated from that era they are taking an increasing interest in studying the culture and historical backgrounds of their origins."

Stromberg, who has headed the university's Scandinavian department for 30 years and under whose direction its library was developed, believes the fourth generation of Scandinavians will produce even greater interest in the courses and facilities available for study of those peoples.

Bathing Suits More Stylish

WIDER ATTACK BEGUN AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE

Nearly 70,000 Die Each Year
Of Disease

MILWAUKEE, May 27—(UP)—The 2,000-year-old battle to whip the white scourge of tuberculosis will receive fresh impetus at the National Tuberculosis Association's 33d annual convention here May 31 to June 3.

The meeting is expected to attract 1,500 physicians, research scientists, nurses, social workers and laymen to plan a stronger frontal attack against the disease on behalf of its 600,000 victims in the United States. Revitalization of the attack is planned through wide distribution and more general application of knowledge about tuberculosis gleaned through centuries of painstaking study. Eradication of the scourge of generations is believed possible if this knowledge can be applied intensively and consistently, according to experts in the field.

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the first tuberculosis dispensary in the world at Edinburgh, Scotland, by Sir Robert Philip, M. D., also will be observed at the convention. Philip's dispensary is reputed to be the first organized community effort made in the world to free mankind of tuberculosis.

Studies Begun 2,000 Years Ago
Veterans in anti-tuberculosis activity are continuing studies known to have begun some 2,000 years ago. The aid of laboratory science has been enlisted for some 300 years. But the human family, acting as a community, took up the cudgel in its own behalf only a half-century ago. As evidence of the strides made since that development, scientists cite reports showing reduction of the tuberculosis mortality from 300 deaths per 100,000 population among civilized countries in 1887 to approximately 50 deaths per 100,000 persons at present.

Cost of clinic treatment of the disease in the United States was estimated at between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 annually. Studies indicate regional differences in effect of the disease with the mortality higher among men than women in all parts of the nation except the Mississippi valley and the Southern states.

Deaths Gradually Reduced
Nearly 70,000 persons in the United States die annually of tuberculosis, according to reports to be presented at the meeting. The death rate has been lowered from 201 deaths per 10,000 population in 1904 to 55 in 1935. Prevalence of the disease is estimated to entail costs totaling about $10,000,000 annually.

CHICK CHATS

There is an old riddle: "Why is a hen a poor economist?" And the answer is: "For every grain she takes she gives a peck!" You probably know that the reason hens do not lay at night is because "at night they are all roosters!"

If you have handled thousands of chicks each spring you also know that there is a difference. This difference is not only in their immediate vigor and good size but in the history back of the chick. Two boxes of chicks that look practically alike to the naked eye may be as different as a scrub cow and a magnificent thoroughbred.

The best answer to our first riddle is: A good hen is not and never has been a poor economist. During the depression many a large flock paid the interest on the mortgage and kept the wolf from the door. The ratio between feed cost and egg prices has, of course, been unfavorable for a few months. More so than at any time since 1917.

But it is surprising how many flocks owners—keeping a close record for the entire year and not judging by a few months—have made money the last year under rather adverse poultry conditions. Think how much better they will do next fall and winter. This is no "riddle" to decide whether or not you shall fill your laying house with pullets in the fall. You will, if you can.

Sometimes it is puzzling to the poultry keeper just what periods in the life of a chick are "critical periods." From a profit and loss standpoint there is no more critical period than the eighth to the sixteenth week, simply because the average poultryman becomes careless during that period and usually has heavy losses. Growing stock must have plenty of Vitamins, enough minerals and proper nutrients so that they will not suffer nor go to pieces after they come into lay.

During that period it is a wise idea to give them Epsom Salts every two weeks (for three or four hours during one morning only.) Or better still, give them a milk flush making their ration forty percent dried milk and feed it for one day every two weeks. If there is no growing green stuff on the pullet range, then supply green feed in the morning (fresh cut alfalfa, clover or other grasses or carrots) at the rate of three pounds per hundred birds. If no fresh greens are available then leafy alfalfa hay may be kept in wire netting where pullets can get at it all the time.

There is an old saying "When in doubt do nothing!" But I would suggest that when you are in doubt or puzzled about any details of the poultry project, seek the counsel of an experienced poultryman, someone in whom you have confidence, and solve that puzzle quickly or you are likely to experience lost profit.—By S. Croman.

AMANDA

Farewell Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearce, of Oakland, gave a farewell party for their daughter, Mrs. Bess Kocher, who departed Sunday to join her husband in the state of Washington. A family dinner was enjoyed and those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Valentine, daughter

Ruby and son Vahn of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Creager, Miss Carrie Pearce of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Shupe, son Lester and the honored one. In the afternoon the Stoutville Band, under the leadership of Mr. Eugene Crites, arrived and a real old fashioned picnic was enjoyed by the above guests, and many other friends.

Among those who attended the Rural Life Sunday service, at Lancaster high school were Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Kern and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Solt, Miss Viola Heister.

Mrs. G. C. Campbell of Royalton is spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Everett Williamson and family.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, of Ashland, O., were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Rose Shaeffer and Mrs. Junny Porter. Sunday night they were entertained at the home of Mrs. Nora Sreyer. Rev. Brown gave the Baccalaureate address at Amanda high school.

THE GIRL WITH BRAINS

thoughts had been so concentrated on the
acquisition of learning, that she neglected
her personal appearance. The boys were supposed to be more likely to marry some
red cheeked peach.

Many boys are plain and practical, interested in sports and money making, but
they don't know much about books. If the
fair graduate should begin talking about
evolution or Tennyson, they wouldn't know
what to say. Hence, it has often been said
that the educated girl must carefully con-
ceal the fact that she knows something, if
she wishes masculine attention.

But the pictures of the scenes about the
schools and colleges, the photographs of
the girl graduates, do not suggest that education and beauty are necessarily opposed
to each other. In fact, the looks of these diploma winners would be hard to beat.
It would appear their minds have not been
exclusively fixed upon the lines of the
poets, nor on the theorems of geometry.
Apparently they have paid their share of
visits to the beauty shop.

Some boys had better give their sluggish
minds a bit of a prod, and find out about
the things going on in the world. Then they will not be absolutely speechless when
they find a girl who knows something. Such
a girl will make a better showing when
world.

SAME OLD STORY

MICHIGAN politicians are trying to increase the State sales tax from two to
three percent. They claim that more money
is needed, and, of course, the tax on retail selling offers an attractive opportunity
for augmenting the public treasury.

It's the same old story. Give the political
gentry a fiscal opening, and they will immediately begin expanding it into a veritable bonanza.

If the taxpayers of Michigan are wise,
they will join in a vigorous drive to curb the
tax-grabbers before it's too late.

CHILDREN'S HOME WORK

AMONG foremost educators the desirabil-
ity of abolishing home work requirements for pupils is seriously discussed. In
a recent radio address an official of the United Parents' Association, of New York,
said that requiring children to have defin-ited study periods at home is coming to be considered "one of the greatest contributing factors to retardation and the cause of
a high percentage of truancy."

More serious, perhaps, is the evil effect
of depriving childhood of its right to normal playtime and to early bedtime. Little
will be gained if book lessons are learned
at the expense of health and normal development of the child mind.

ROBINSON MAY GET COURT JOB

WASHINGTON — Senate Floor Leader
Joe Robinson will be appointed to the Supreme Court vacancy — but he won't
get the prize plum right away.

Under the law the President must name
the successor to Justice Van Devanter before the conclusion of the current session
of Congress. But since the session is good
for at least another three months, the President has plenty of time to act.

And he is going to take his time—for
three very good reasons:

First, to put the heat on Joe to get busy
and deliver the Judicial Reorganization Bill. The Arkansan is for the President's measure, but to date his efforts in its be-
half have been nothing to write home
about. If he will exert himself he can produce some badly needed Senate support.

Vice President Jack Garner and certain
other Administration leaders, who while
professing to be for the bill, have been
secretly sniping at it. Joe also might win
over some votes from the opposition camp,
for his most zealous backers for the Supreme Court job are among the foes of the President's measure. Joe could put it up
to them that if they are such good pals of
his they could give tangible expression to
their friendship by coming across for him
in the Court right.

Second, the White House wants to keep
Joe in the Senate until its legislative program is out of the way. A vacancy in the floor leadership now might lead to a cat-
and-dog wrangle for the place, and still
further complicate an already badly muddled
situation.

Finally, Robinson's 65 years makes it embarrassing to appoint him to the one available vacancy while the court controversy is
in progress. However, if several additional Justices were authorized, he could be included in the list of appointees on the
ground that he is one of a group of representative selections.

So Joe will be kept on tenter-hooks to
earn his appointment.

ROBINSON LOBBY

The Capital has never seen a more extraordinary lobby than one plugging for Robinson. It consists almost entirely of Senators.

Not only is the entire Administration
leadership busy, but practically all the Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats
are rooting for him. The only ones not active are the progressives—and they are not
actually opposing Joe, either.

The ink on Van Devanter's resignation
was hardly dry before the lobby was in full cry. Reporters experienced the unique
thrill of being buttonholed by big-name
Senators and urged to go to bat for Robinson.

One of the most amusing incidents was
the threatening statement made by Josiah
Bailey, who has opposed practically everything advocated by the President.

reactionary North Carolina Senator, "the President will lose not only a Senate leader but the entire Senate."

should be able to get at the facts and decide on right policies.

Love is for Tomorrow

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy Knight, in the temporary role
of a radio announcer of a Children's four program, has been misled by the fan mail of "a lady named Madden".
Disgusted and humiliated, he jumps
into his car and leaves town. After driving for miles, he pauses at a deserted beach for a plunge in the ocean.
Suddenly a girl appears and asks
Sandy to rescue her dog. He learns
the girl is Marcia Madden whose
grandmother perpetrated the radio
prank. Then Sandy meets Grandma.
He lives both women at once. Marcia fascinates him. He learns she is a
commercial artist and she discovers Sandy is the head of a new advertising firm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5

"I THINK I like best the independence of advertising and the
chance for individual thinking that
it offers," Marcia told Sandy. "You
seem to be pioneers of ideas when
you are working out details of an advertising campaign. Always
searching for the new, leading the
way. A catch phrase, a tricky
idea, anything to make people
wake up to something they should
know. It keeps you mentally excited, on your toes every minute."

"Ah, we have an idealist to contend with. Of course, that's one side of it. But how about the theory that your job so often is to
make people want something they
really don't need, or can't afford.
What of that?" Sandy was teas-
ing her, yet not a little interested
to see how the girl would take
sides on this controversial problem.

"If people were satisfied with
what they had, there'd be no
progress, she countered sensibly.
"I don't think advertising should stimulate unreasonable or unnecessary desires. But it is a responsibility to keep people informed of the
new things, educate them up to
wanting them and using them.
Besides, these same 'wants' are
spurs to ambition. If you have
reason enough, you'll work harder.
It's a sort of stimulus to reach the
top of the ladder."

"Sounds like a squirrel cage to
me. Goes round and round and never gets anywhere. Some of the more you want the more you want idea," Sandy was deliberately trying to annoy her. Then he went
on, sadly: "Yes, my lady, I'm
afraid you would be one of these
whip-cracking wives, always goad-
ing your poor man into new expenditures. I can see him now,
with his nose at the grindstone."

"Can you see his face, old dear,"
she asked with mock solemnity.
"I've always wanted to know just who my fate would be."

"No, nothing except that he's old
and gray and overworked, no
doubt," he laughed. "But don't let me fuss you. Honestly, you're
right, you know. There is a chance
to do a lot of good through advertising. Make life easier and safer
by stirring up a lot of justifiable
wants. Keep your dreams, my
girl, keep your head in the stars!"

"And your nose to the grind-
stone!—or, I mean my husband's,"
she corrected herself with an embarrassed glance at Sandy.

"Not a bad idea," he caught her
up quickly. "Now, what I'd suggest is—"

"Another swim," she interrupted,
thinking the conversation was
heading too rapidly toward a
climax. "You can borrow some of George's trunks and we'll have a
swim before lunch time. That is,
if you'd like? Your other dip was
cut short, I'm afraid—and I never
did get around to mine."

So the talk became general
again, but the brief skirmish had awakened each advertiser's latent
other. "Easy does it, old man,"
Sandy admonished himself in a
monotone, as he followed Marcia
down the jagged trail to the sand
a few moments later. Diving neatly and almost simultaneously be-
neath a wave, they struck out
lazily to swim in the protected
cove. As usual, the steady pull
was both relaxing and refreshing.
They swam side by side in a spirit
of complete understanding, then

reluctantly headed for shore.

"I must go," Marcia said abruptly, when Sandy had settled himself
to "sun tan" on the burning sands.
"We've guests for lunch and I have
to dash. Won't you join us?"

Sandy declined the invitation
with an apologetic gesture indicating his informal attire. He
went up the trail with her to
change his trunks for the comfortable old tweeds, then parted with emphatic remarks about seeing her
that evening.

"Tell Grandma I'll be back to see
my two girls tonight," he said as
he made a hasty exit through the garden. "And many other evenings. I go to see if I can't rent
you little dove nest for the week."

"Just so you don't start cooking,"
she flung back at him as he went
swinging through the gate. Looking back he saw her, still in her
white suit with the scarlet cape drapping from her shoulders. The great palm tree cast weird shad-
ows upon her figure, but the sun
highlighted her coppery hair and
even from that distance he caught
her radiant smile of farewell. He
was to remember that picture of Marcia all his life, the combination
of sunshine and shadow, her un-
quenchable bright spirit that refused to be subdued by the clutching fingers of the shadows about her.

"Getting poetic already," he
mused, as he caught himself thinking of Marcia in such fanciful moments. She caught his imagination
as no one else had, for he sensed
the true character that was an integral part of this girl. She could
bandy nonsense with the best of
them, yet she had a fund of common sense and appeal that made
her beyond the average—even at
first meeting. What would future
acquaintance bring—an untold
wealth of happiness, or disillusion-
ment?

Sandy made hurried negotiations
with the auto camp operator, and
unpacked his meager store of
clothing slowly. He wondered if
he was foolishly letting himself in
for another embarrassing experience by staying at La Cresta and developing the friendship of the charming Marcia Madden. But as he remembered her straightforward manner and her disarming
smile, he relaxed.

"I'm getting myself all jaded up
in a romance, without even know-

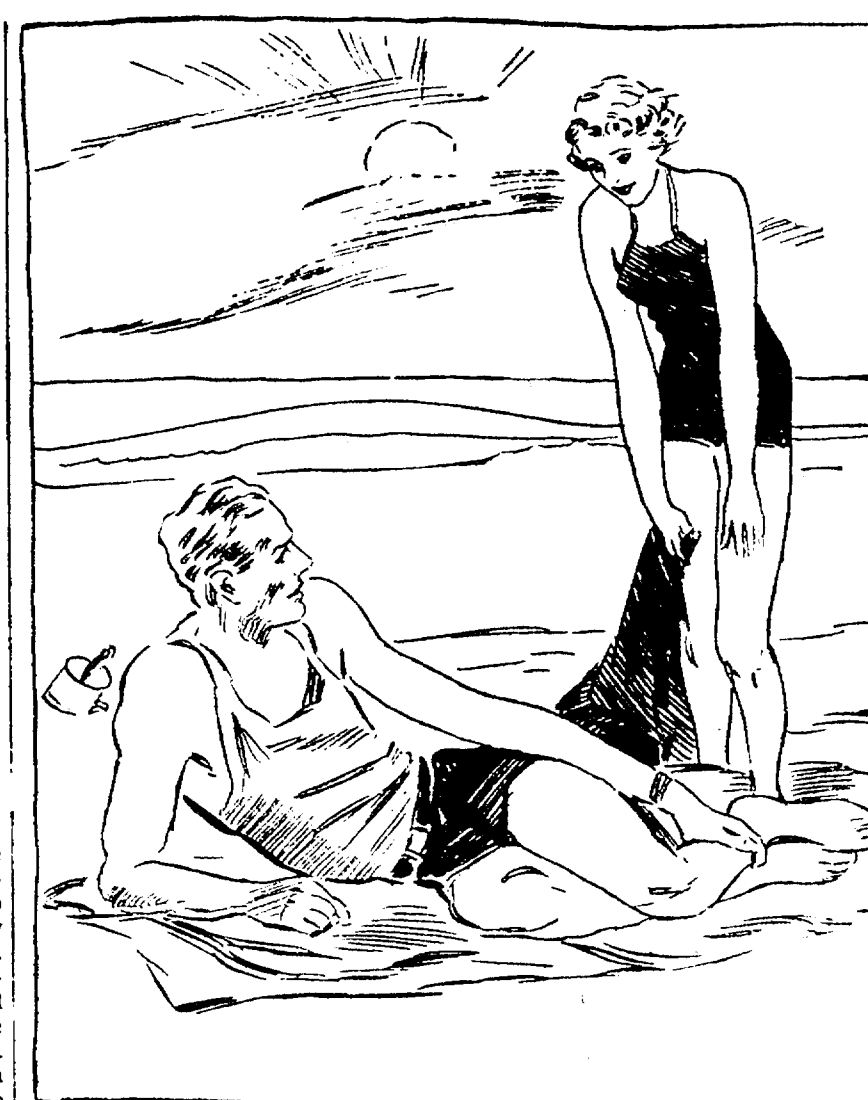

ing if the gal is interested," he
laughed at himself. He knew his
own failing of taking everyone
more seriously than the occasion
warranted, but this time he felt
sure that the situation did require
a little serious concentration.
Sandy wasn't much of a lady's
man; his shyness precluded it. But
he had always cherished a secret
dream of the One Girl who was to
change the whole course of his
life. Demure and sweet she was,
not necessarily too much of the
clinging-vine type, but one who
would make a man feel his man-
hood. Someone to stay at home,
and to welcome him after a long
day.

Stay at home! As he thought
over his ideal girl, he hit upon this
stumbling block. For while Marcia
was ultra-feminine in appearance, she most certainly was not a
stay-at-home. On the contrary,
she seemed too much wrapped up
in this professional life of hers.
Sandy recalled the enjoyable conference they had shared that
morning, and while he admitted the
satisfaction of eliciting intelligent
responses from Marcia on subjects
so close to his own heart, at the
same time he resented the fact
that she was so engrossed in business activities.

"Well, I'll change that or know
the reason why," Sandy thought to
himself, for he felt more and more
certain that Marcia was the girl
he had hoped to find at every house
party, every dance he was forced
to attend. And if she did prove to
be the right person, surely she
would change her mode of living
from working girl to adored housewife without a qualm.

Sandy spent the next eight days
furthering these ideas. Unaccus-
tomed as he was to approved
Emily Post methods of courtship,
he made good headway in those
sunny lazy days when he and Mar-
cia spent most of their time swimming in the turquoise sea or riding
along shady lanes. He felt their
friendship had ripened far beyond
casual limits, and as they ate picnic suppers on the sand, chatted
in the sunroom with Grandma, or dashed down the hill to see the
only movie in town, he watched her
closely to see if the new experience
they were sharing had diminished
her interest in continuing with a
business career.

(To Be Continued)

"I must go," Marcia said abruptly.

DIET AND HEALTH

How Nervous System Works in Playing Game

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE OF THE most complicated
and intricate mechanisms of the
body is one which we all take on the time on every vacant lot and place where a tennis court
or golf course
can be erected. This is the process which is the basis of practically all games, the ability to hit a small round
object—a ball
with a long,
large object—
a baseball bat,
or a tennis
racket or a golf club. Anybody
can do it after a fashion. And
yet if you are going to do it very
well, it requires the co-operation
of practically the entire nervous
and muscular systems.

Just think of the difficulties of
the situation. Here is a baseball,
we will say, coming toward you
at a speed of at least 60 miles an hour. I do not know exactly how big a standard baseball is, but certainly it is not more than four inches in diameter. You are going to try to hit that ball with a wooden bat which at its largest
part is probably no larger than
three inches. The ball is going to pass your body at a certain point
in space and at a certain fractional
second of time, and exactly at that
time and exactly at that point,
you must bring forward with the
muscles of your arms and shoulders, the bat so that it exactly coincides with the middle of the ball.
If you had a ball hanging there
and could practice a couple of
times, you could do it very well,
but even that would be marvelous
because the ball is entirely outside
the contact of your body. In other words, you have to determine the
point in space where the ball is going to be, and then you have to determine how to get the bat exactly to the coincident space.

What determines these judgments? There probably is no part
of the nervous system, except the
organ of reason, which is not involved. There is no reason to it.
In the first place, you have to be
able to stand up, to balance yourself in space. This means that the three little canals in the ear, which
are filled with a very sensitive
fluid, must respond so accurately
that you can tell even with your
eyes shut whether you are standing upright or lying down, or
also, you see, allow your body to make judgments as to whether and
how far it is leaning forward or
backward. These canals send
nerve fibers to the cerebellum. The
eyes have to be able to judge distance, and they help in a way to keep the body in space. The eyes
also send fibers to the cerebellum.

Now it so happens that if you
have a normal nervous system, you
are able to shut your eyes and extend your hand and forearm, and
at a command touch the tip of
your nose with the end of your
forefinger. To do this depends on muscle sense, whether your muscles are tensed, whether the arm is straightened or bent. Did you
ever think that it is quite remarkable that you can tell whether
your arm is straight or bent, and
exactly how much bent? From the
muscles and points which determine this judgment, nerve fibers
go to the cerebellum.

We are getting to see that the
cerebellum is a pretty important
kind of organ. It doesn't do any thing for us, but it does all those automatic things which carry us through these complicated processes.

When all the fibers from the or-
gan of equilibrium, and the eyes,
and the muscles get to the cere-
bellum, their sensations are there
added up, as in a clearing house,
so that you can perform the mar-
velous feat of placing the bat exactly against the surface of the
ball in space and in point of time.

Dr. Clendening

racket or a golf club. Anybody
can do it after a fashion. And
yet if you are going to do it very
well, it requires the co-operation
of practically the entire nervous
and muscular systems.

Just think of the difficulties of
the situation. Here is a baseball,
we will say, coming toward you
at a speed of at least 60 miles an hour. I do not know exactly how
big a standard baseball is, but certainly it is not more than four
inches in diameter. You are going to try to hit that ball with a
wooden bat which at its largest
part is probably no larger than
three inches. The ball is going to
pass your body at a certain point
in space and at a certain fractional
second of time, and exactly at that
time and exactly at that point,
you must bring forward with the
muscles of your arms and shoulders, the bat so that it exactly co-
incides with the middle of the ball.
If you had a ball hanging there
and could practice a couple of
times, you could do it very well,
but even that would be marvelous
because the ball is entirely outside
the contact of your body. In other
words, you have to determine the
point in space where the ball is
going to be, and then you have to

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to coffee and the morning paper, finding in the prints
much news of threatened strikes,
they having replaced war possibilities in the headlines and with reason, too, for they are almost as costly in cash. Did know a man once who bought a good automobile, but could not leave its "innards" alone and consequently had much more than his share of transportation trouble.
We are something like that chap. Just about the time the nation begins hitting on all eight cylinders after many a long year of limping we suddenly decide to make it run better. Maybe we will, and maybe we will not.

Overheard Jim Swearingen
and "Dick" Curl discussing service in Circleville's first national guard company. Mr. Curl, now 86, was one of the first to join the military organization and saw service in the great railroad strike of 1877, the first major labor disturbance in the nation.
Of 78 local men who saw military service during that strike only two besides Mr. Curl are alive. They are Howard Brown, of the ville, and George Groce, who now lives in Columbus. Jim took up arms in the company

the year after the strike.

On South Scioto street did note a great beauty bush in the yard of Mrs. B. K. Clapp, and it is truly named. Twelve feet tall and a mass of bloom. Fay, the little girl next door, dropped in to settle a question in her mind as to whether the scriv-ener is the janitor at the newspaper plant and for some reason apparently much disappointed to hear otherwise.

In the afternoon to the funeral of George Foerst at the Elks club, sitting among the great and near great as the Rev.
Herman Sayre paid a fine tribute to a good citizen who has passed on. Real sorrow in evidence there for we all know how George will be missed.

Impressed by the Elks funeral service which had not heard in 20 years, the last time being over Indiana way following death of a mysterious Colonel Hawkins, a kindly and intelligent man who gave me much advice of merit, but who steadfastly refused to disclose facts regarding his own past. In his effects was found the name of a sister to be notified in the event of death. And to the colonel's funeral came the governors of four Southern states

and many other high officials, for he was a member of a great family who had lost his money
and who preferred disappearing
from the land that had known him from a boy. He was much like George Foerst in his tolerance and respect for others.

Back to the plant, then, for a session of cyphering against the first of the month and found nothing particularly pleasing in the figures. Saw Patricia Bennett passing, so did hurry out and deliver in person a birthday greeting card that should have been mailed the day before.

Display to Be Open Until 9 o'clock Two Evenings

Thursday marked the opening of the Flower Show sponsored by the members of the Pickaway County Garden club. The show is being held in the E. E. Clifton sales room in S. Court street, and many entries in all classes were received.

The club deserves much credit for arranging the show, which is open to the public. Entries were received from many amateur exhibitors, other than garden club members. Judging in the various classes began Thursday afternoon, ribbons being the awards, with the exception of the Sweepstakes prize, which will be given the exhibitor scoring the greatest number of points. The exhibit includes displays of oriental poppies, peonies, both double and single, pyrethras, columbines, German and Siberian iris, delphiniums, roses and flowering shrubs. Prizes will be given also for artistic arrangements of various kinds of flowers and miniature arrangements, approximately five inches wide and seven inches high. Admission is free.

The show began at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and continues until 9 p. m. It opens Friday at 10 a. m. and closes at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Sensesbrenner Hostess

Mrs. Marion Sensesbrenner, of E. Mound street, was hostess to the members of her auction bridge club, Wednesday evening. All members were present for the game. Mrs. Malcolm Parrott and Mrs. Sensesbrenner were score prize winners after the evening's play. The traveling prize was presented Mrs. George Green, Confections were served at the tables during the evening. Mrs. Russell Siegwald will entertain the club at her home in N. Scioto street, in two weeks.

Senior Play Cast Dinner

Members of the cast of the Senior class play, the technical staff and advisors enjoyed a dinner Tuesday evening at the Pickaway Country Club. Dinner was served on the porch of the club house at small tables at 7 o'clock, and the evening was spent in dancing and playing cards.

Following the dinner a gift was presented Roy Bowen from the members of the cast and the technical staff, in appreciation of his work as coach.

State Demands Chair For Boy, Girl Arrested For Woman's Slaying

ARGUMENTS SCHEDULED

Hatchet Murder Denied By Young Couple

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 27. (UP)—A blue ribbon jury hears today the final appeals of Gladys MacKnight, 17, and Donald Wightman, 19, who want to escape the electric chair for the hatchet murder of Gladys' mother—a crime the former sweethearts blame on each other.

R. Lewis Kennedy will address the jurors first in behalf of the thin-lipped high school girl who charged that Donald struck her mother in the kitchen of the MacKnight home on July 31, 1936. Kennedy is expected to ask Judge Thomas F. Meaney to throw out indictments charging first degree murder on the ground that the state failed to prove premeditation. Donald's appeal will be made by his attorney, George T. Vickers, who failed yesterday in two attempts to obtain a directed verdict. Vickers told the jury that "not one scintilla of evidence had been produced that the crime was a wilful, felonious, and with malice aforethought, murder."

Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan will demand conviction of both defendants, with death as the penalty. The jurors may also bring in a verdict of second degree murder, which carries a penalty of 30 years; manslaughter, one to 10 years; or acquittal. There is also the possibility of split verdicts, conviction for Gladys, acquittal for Donald—or vice versa.

Donald, half-sobbing and near collapse, was subjected to a forceful cross-examination yesterday, which failed to shake his story that he was merely an innocent bystander when Gladys hacked her mother to death following a quarrel over a late dinner that delayed a tennis match.

EASEMENTS PAID

Payments to $2,379.53 for easements on county roads 19 and 30, the Five Points-South Bloomfield and the Fairfield-South-Bloomfield roads, respectively, will be made Saturday. These roads have been taken over by the state. Some easements have been paid, and others are still to be settled. Five farmers along the Old Tarrion road were paid $45.50 for land appropriated for improvements on curves.

COMMENCEMENTS END TERMS FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS

Pickaway county's commencement closed Wednesday night with exercises in the Methodist church at Five Points and at Commercial Point.

H. H. Maynard, of the college of commerce of Ohio State university, spoke at the Monroe township commencement in Five Points. Highlights of his address were applications of business principles to proper living. About 300 attended the commencement. County Superintendent George McDowell presented diplomas to the ten graduates.

A capacity crowd attended the Scioto township program. L. W. Reese, superintendent of the Washington C. H. public schools, delivered the address. The Scioto township Parent-Teachers association will hold the annual basket picnic at noon, Friday, the last day of school. The alumni reunion will be held Saturday night.

COMPENSATION SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, May 27 — (UP)—Suit was filed in the supreme court today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy to compel State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to pay Donald Power of Columbus, $5,500 for his services as special counsel for the state in the recent Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate case before the U. S. supreme court. Ferguson has declined payment of the fee on the ground that Power's work in the case has not been completed.

Automatic Cookery

Cookery without worry becomes automatic, but automatic in the sense of carefree rather than disinterested when we use modern services to help us. An automatic refrigerator has so many qualifying uses that we waste our resources unless we take advantage of them.

Main course dishes to be prepared ahead of time save last minute rushes for luncheons and dinners. A short final cooking for a dish such as Spinach au Gratin or Scalloped Salmon makes a meal easy and simple. The white sauce called for in these two recipes is made by using 1 C. milk, 2 Tbsp. flour and 2 Tbsp. butter.

Spinach au Gratin
2 C. cooked spinach
3 hard cooked eggs
1 C. white sauce
Bread crumbs
Grated cheese

Put a layer of spinach in bottom of greased baking dish. Add a layer of sliced eggs. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Pour some sauce over layers of spinach and egg. Add more spinach, egg, seasonings, sauce and top with crumbs mixed with a little grated cheese. Place in refrigerator until mealtime. Then bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes, or until thoroughly heated through.

Scalloped Salmon
1 C. white sauce
1 1/2 C. cold flaked salmon
1 Tbsp. chopped green pepper
1/4 tsp. paprika
1 C. soft bread crumbs

To the hot white sauce add salmon, green pepper and paprika. Mix well. Put in greased ramekins or a large baking dish. Sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Place in refrigerator until ready to bake. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes, or until crumbs are brown.

Vegetal Ring Salad
For guests or a family dinner a novel salad has appeal.

1 Tbsp. gelatin
1/4 C. cold water
1 C. boiling water
3 Tbsp. vinegar
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 C. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 C. diced celery
1 C. shredded cabbage
1 C. cooked peas

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt and vegetables and mix thoroughly. Turn into a ring mold which has been dipped into cold water. Chill. Remove from mold to salad plate. Fill center with crisp lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. Thin slices of cold cooked meats may be arranged around the jelly ring.

Chocolate Refrigerator Cookies
A midday nibble or a cookie-jar filler are suitable purposes for Chocolate Refrigerator Cookies.

1/4 C. shortening
1/4 C. sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1/4 C. evaporated milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 C. pastry flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
1/2 C. finely chopped nuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Mix the dry ingredients and add half of this mixture to the first mixture. Add melted chocolate and nuts and the rest of the flour. Form into a roll 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and chill for 2 hours in refrigerator. Slice thin. Bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 25 cookies.

LOG MILLION YEARS OLD
CLEVELAND (UP)—Cypress logs a million years old from trees of the Pleistocene era will be on display in the "Making of a Nation" section of the Great Lakes exposition this year.

FIFTY TO RIDE MOUNTAIN TRAIL

BANFF, Alberta (UP)—Mouna Assiniboine, long known as the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies, will be the objective of the annual five-day ride from Banff starting July 30 and ending Aug. 3. The trip, arranged by the band of outdoor enthusiasts known as the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, will be headed by their new president, R. H. Palenske, of Chicago.

Riding trail by day and sleeping under canvas at night, the group will spend two nights in the camp at the base of the 12,000-foot mountain, with plenty of time for fishing in nearby Marvel Lake or for hiking.

This cavalcade will set out along Brewster Creek for Brewster Camp, where the first night will be spent, and then continues to Mt. Assiniboine, remaining there the next two nights. The fourth day's trek is through the Simpson Range and over the 7,000-foot Simpson Pass to Sunshine Camp. On the following morning the group follows Healy Creek into the Borgeau Range for the annual Pow-Wow before reentering Banff. The party will consist of 50 riders, plus a crew of guides, cooks, horse-wranglers and a pack train of 50 horses to carry camping gear and supplies.

The Trail Riders' membership of more than 1,200 is scattered on all the five continents, and includes representatives of the arts, professional and business worlds. Ramsay MacDonald and the ex-King and Queen of Siam are active members.

Long known as the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies, Mt. Assiniboine (11,870 ft.) probably was seen in 1841 by the early explorer Sir George Simpson, and later named for the tribe of Assiniboine or Stoney Indians who inhabit the region. The mountain's first accredited visitor was R. L. Barrett, who reached it in 1893 under the guidance of the late Tom Wilson of Banff. The first to climb this peak was Sir James Ostram, who in 1901 stood on its summit, looked down its sheer wall to the shining glacier 6,000 feet below and counted a dozen lakes in the ranges that stretched before him. A dozen years ago the peak was scaled by Harry Pollard, Canadian photographer and charter member of the Trail Riders. Its most recent conquest was made in 1934 by young Miss Georgia Engelhard of New York, also a member of the Trail Riders and member of the American Alpine Club.

BLOOD PRESSURE FOUND AFFECTED BY TWO GLANDS

ST. LOUIS (UP)—High blood pressure is due to a lack of balance between the sympathetic system governing the circulation of the blood and the energy-controlling adrenal and thyroid glands, according to Dr. George W. Crile, one of the founders of the Cleveland Clinic.

Dr. Crile told the American

TEXAS TOMATO WILL FEATURE FETE OF MAY 30

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (UP)—The East Texas tomato growing area, producing one of the largest tomato crops in the world, will celebrate its annual festival here May 31, June 1 and 2. The tomato show will highlight National Tomato Week, May 30 to June 5.

The finest tomatoes from all growing sections of the country will be exhibited at the show, the official title of which is the Fourth Annual Jacksonville Tomato Show and Festival.

More than 75 counties and shipping points of the Texas tomato crop will send entries to the exhibition.

While tomato growers vie for prizes, beautiful girls from 55 cities of East Texas will compete for the title of 1937 Tomato Queen.

Attending the queen will be princesses from the 55 Texas cities and girls representing half a dozen neighboring states.

Twenty-three bands will play; floats, the Tomato Queen and her entourage, marching school children and other delegations will make up a colorful parade. City, county and state officials will study marketing methods and improvements of the Texas tomato crop.

For entertainment, the show will provide the Queen's coronation, a folk festival and Tomati-Gro, a night given over to masquerade and street dancing.

College of Physicians meeting here that a close relation between the two is found in all animals and in man.

He said the relation exists because the glands, in speeding up oxidation and increasing energy through a substance poured into the blood stream, create a demand for an increased supply of atmospheric oxygen brought to the tissues by the blood stream. Relief from high blood pressure consequently may be obtained by reducing the activity of either the glands or the sympathetic system, depending upon which is the offending mechanism.

Dr. Crile reported that in 84 operations, high blood pressure had been reduced by first reducing activity of the sympathetic system. However, he said further observation of the patients would be necessary before a final judgment on the value of the operations could be made.

BEAUTY BATHS AID PRIZE HOGS

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (UP)—A little knowledge about beauty culture has aided Lester and Louis Dyer, Fond du Lac county youths, in making a success of raising Poland China hogs.

Since 1931, when their father, Eugene Dyer, a farmer, gave them two pigs, the boys have made $1,000 through application of scientific methods in breeding show animals. They have won 150 state and county fair ribbons, 90 of them for first places.

Frequent baths with tar soap and a scrub brush make better hogs, they say. Twice a month during the summer their prize animals must be placed in a small crate and bathed. Before the fairs and livestock shows open, the animals receive five weekly scrubbings with olive oil to make them appear well-groomed and sleek.

Lester a high school sophomore, plans to enter 22 animals in 7 county fairs, the state fair and

the Mississippi Valley fair at Davenport, Ia., this summer. Louis, two years older than Lester, proudly exhibits two trophies he has won, merchandise prizes and one of 10 honor achievement pins presented by the state.

Together, the youths have raised

200 hogs from the original two their father gave them and four which they bought. They have taken in $1,590, of which $590 went for expenses. Last year, six of the Dyer animals won places at the Wisconsin state fair.

Course Makes Endurance
Test of Match

By HENRY McLEMORE
PITTSBURGH, May 27—(UP)—

Sixteen survivors of the Alpine expedition being conducted under the name of the Professional Golfers Association championship gathered today on the starting line with your guess of the ultimate winner as good as mine.

With two eighteen hole rounds behind them, the players began the first of the 36 hole leaps which will bring one man to the heights Sunday night at the conclusion of the toughest of all tournaments.

There never has been a golf championship in this country which placed such a premium on physical fitness as the current P. G. A. It is a steady climb from first green to the home hole, and the leg-weary veterans such as Sarazen, MacFarlane, Watrous and Armour lost their wind and their hopes in yesterday's matches.

The lean and leathery hombres are still climbing and even the bookmakers couldn't pick a favorite. So they threw all the names into a hat and said the odds are eight to one to make your pick.

Shute Versus Dudley
A glance at the pairing sheet explained why they could not separate the sheep from the goats. There were no goats. In the first match of the day the defending champion Denny Shute met Ed Dudley, who came to competitive life again in a fine showing along the winter tournament route. It was 50-50. So was the No. 2 match which pitted Paul Runyan against Jimmy Hines.

The others were no easier to call. Horton Smith and Henry Picard, for example. Do you fancy the greatest putter in the game, Smith, or the mechanical assassin, Picard? If that's too much, choose between Harold (Jug) McSpaden, or Sammy Snead, who came rolling 'round the mountains of West Virginia to write his name in large, red letters on the roster of the elect.

Another match that would demand a roulette croupier to call is the one that brings into conflict Byron Nelson, the young medalist, and wily old Johnny Farrell, who won a National open the hard way—by beating Bobby Jones.

Having made your selections from the preceding offerings, try deciding between Harry Cooper and Jim Foulis, the youngster who knocked out Gene Sarazen; Ky Laffoon and Jimmy Thomson; and Tony Manero, the national open champion, and Vic Ghezzi.

That's what the P. G. A. tournament offered today.

HOPES BRIGHTER FOR COCHRANE'S EARLY RECOVERY

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—A slight improvement in the condition of Mickey Cochrane, seriously injured with a triple skull fracture from being hit by a pitched ball Tuesday, increased hopes for his recovery today.

If complications such as meningitis or an infected sinus do not develop within the next 48 hours, his chances for complete recovery will be enhanced greatly, it was reported.

The Detroit catcher-manager was hit in the fifth inning of Tuesday's game on the right temple by a ball thrown by Irving (Bump) Hadley. X-rays showed one fracture almost completely circling his head, another connected with one of the sinuses, and a third branching off to the left side.

The last hospital bulletin saying "there is no change" followed one last night which said: "Mr. Cochrane is improving slowly. Signs of cerebral concussion are less, but he still faces the possibility of infection of the sinuses and secondary meningitis."

Braddock TOLD TO FIGHT MAXIE OR LOSE TITLE

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock was ordered today to return to New York state by Saturday and complete his training for a title defense against Max Schmeling June 3 under a possible threat by the New York Athletic commission to vacate his title, if he ignores the edict.

Braddock is training at Grand Beach, Michigan, to fight Joe Louis in Chicago June 22, and "much too busy" to come to New York, his Manager Joe Gould, said. In ordering Braddock and Gould to return, the commission made no mention of penalties, but most boxing observers agreed that the ruling athletic body had no alternative except to vacate the championship and name Schmeling as No. 1 challenger, or lose its last vestige of prestige.

Commission Chairman John J. Phelan refused to discuss the possibilities of Braddock's refusal to comply with orders sent yesterday in a telegram.

RED BIRDS WIN ON SLAUGHTER'S BLOW IN TENTH

Rookie Outfielder Sends King Over Plate To Take 4-3 Contest

KANSAS CITY VICTIM

Rizzo Continues to Smack Ball For Safeties

COLUMBUS, May 27—Tuesday night, it was Johnny Rizzo who broke up a ball game with a late inning blow. Wednesday night, Enos Slaughter, another first year man, drove a ball to the centerfield fence to plate Lynn King with the winning marker over the Kansas City Blues.

The hit came in the last half of the tenth inning, the fray ending 4-3.

Rizzo continued his great hitting, driving out two hits, a single and a triple. That makes 36 games in a row in which the outfielder has singled safely.

Southpaw Max Macon was on the mound when the end came, thus receiving credit for the victory, although Bill McGhee hurled the greater part of the tilt, John Nigeling was the Kasey hurler.

NEW YORK NINES MAY BE PITTED IN SERIES PLAY

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—The billing for baseball's big October circus again may be: "See the world series on a nickel."

The New York Yankees are digging in for a long stay in first place in the American league and the Giants are on a whirlwind tour of the West which may land them atop the National league before June 1. The way Gotham's teams are going now they certainly resemble the two clubs to beat just as the "experts" said they would be in the Spring forecasts.

On recent form the Yanks appear booked for another flag. The Yanks have a 6-game winning streak intact and a three-game lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians. Right now the American league battle is for second place between the Indians, Tigers and Athletics.

The Giants, who are having one of their best western trips in years, rolled on to their fifth straight victory yesterday and narrowed Pittsburgh's lead to a game and a half. The Pirates, who have dropped their last three games, were idle yesterday.

The Yanks scored their second shutout in two days when Lefty Gomez blanked the Tigers, 7-0. In scoring his fifth victory Gomez fanned six and issued no passes. Selkirk and Lazzari hit homers in the Yanks' 13-hit attack.

SPOTTED FEVER WANES
HAMILTON, Mont. (UP)—Spotted fever is rapidly being stamped out in the Bitter Root valley as a result of WPA projects in Ravalli county. Six new dipping vats were erected to replace the old, dilapidated ones. The vats, built last summer and fall, were put to wide use this spring.

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRAUCHER
Grease-Balls Important

Mechanics at Indianapolis are an unhonored legion...they're just the guys who go along for a ride...500 miles around that red hot speedway at an average at better than 100 miles an hour...How would you like to sit there beside a fellow hitting that kind of speed with cars whizzing along on both sides of you?...the gent who has the wheel, of course, knows where he is going, and what he is doing or trying to do...but the grease-ball beside him just sits tight, wondering, hoping it's all going to be all right, holding his breath perhaps at times, squeezing his shoulders together when the racing room narrows down to a tight squeak.

It isn't all just sitting, to be sure...if it were, mechanics would be goofier than they are, I guess...but there are a lot of things to do...some of them impossible things...and the tasks sometimes pile up all at once, and a guy has to get going in a nervous sweat...

Of Johnny Pawl
Last year Johnny Pawl hitchhiked from Morrisville, Pa., and crashed into the race as mechanic for Fred Frame...Frame lasted only three laps when his crankshaft broke...Johnny stayed around the pits, hoping some other driver would come along and call for a mechanic...finally he got back in the seat with Cliff Bergere...and they tore around the oval for 106 miles...then the gas ran out, and while Bergere tinkered with the engine, Johnny dashed to the pits for a can of gas...

with the precious fuel, he was on his way back to the stranded car when he saw Al Miller's car spin on the bricks, throwing the driver out onto the track.

then he dashed back to his gas and sprinted to Bergere's car...late, but a hero...Johnny received the 1936 award for sportsmanship...

Delroy Has Role
Then there's Frankie Delroy...mechanic for Wild Bill Cummings...Frankie comes up to the races this year with a brand new idea...it's "holding hands"...a driver's hands get very tired after a couple of hundred miles of that grind...so Frankie takes Bill's hands (one at a time) and rubs the circulation back...he figures it's not too dangerous to do the straightaway.

Frankie, who weighs no more than a jockey (112 pounds) said he conceived the idea while Cummings was setting that record in the recent qualifying trials...he noticed Bill holding up a hand in the stretch in an effort to relieve a cramped muscle.

Frankie had some other things to think about, too, while Cummings was setting that record...on the third lap, going through a turn, the gear shift of Wild Bill's mount jumped out for a minute and he slid down near the safety apron...Frankie slid down into the "cellar" and held the gear shift in place while Bill hit the last lap for 125.129 miles an hour for a world record...a bit of vibration?...yeah, but these Indianapolis grease-balls do not mind that...

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.) Here was a case where Morgan Howard, bridge leader of San Francisco, found himself in a 7-Spade contract into which an over-enthusiastic partner had pushed him. When West led a small diamond, Mr. Howard studied the dummy in conjunction with his own hand.

His job was to prevent the loss of a solitary trick, though the Q-J-10-9 and 4 of trumps were out against him. Apparently no possible distribution of the adverse spades could permit the grand slam to be made. However, cour-

There was one chance in many millions, after West's lead of a small diamond, that, having seven hearts between them, the left-hand opponent would hold six hearts, leaving a singleton on the right; that the right-hand adversary would trump the second heart honor with the spade 4 and that the remaining four trumps would be divided. All of these things eventuated. Mr. Howard, of course, misruffled his cards and was left with only two trumps. He was forced to drop the other trumps with the Ace and K, and thus negotiated "a slam which cannot be made".

NICK DUNLAP TO ACT AS CHAIRMAN OF BOY SCOUT FINANCIAL DRIVE

KINGSTON MAN TO DIRECT $600 CIVIC CAMPAIGN

Breakfast Arranged For Next Wednesday To Begin Effort

MANY OTHERS TO HELP Future Of Youth Work In County In Balance

Renick W. Dunlap, of Kingston, was appointed Thursday by Dwight Steele, president of the Kiwanis club, a campaign chairman for the annual sustaining membership appeal for the Boy Scout movement in the Pickaway county district. The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the drive this year in behalf of the community.

Dunlap, who is a member of the Kiwanis club, in addition to being active in scouting as chairman of the troop committee of the Kingston Presbyterian church unit, Troop No. 5, is also a member of the executive board of the Central Ohio Area Council.

Other to Assist

Other Kiwanians will head sub-committees for the drive. They will be announced soon. Scouters and others generally interested in youth work will assist Kiwanians in the campaign.

The campaign, which seeks to raise $600 to maintain scout work in Circleville and the Pickaway district, will open with a breakfast for all workers next Wednesday morning. Previous to this, efforts will be made by a special committee to obtain initial gifts from a select group of individuals and firms.

Co-operating committees in the district which will assist in the campaign include Ashville, Williamsport, and Kingston.

Scouting, now in its twenty-seventh year in this country, is a leisure time program of character building and citizenship training activities designed to supplement the church, home and school. Any boy, 12 years of age or over, may become a scout.

board of trustees, and S. R. Finley, Columbus, electrical engineer, were in Washington recently conferring with officials of the Rural Electrification Administration and boosting the project.

740 Miles Listed

The project, including Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties, includes construction of about 740 miles of rural lines, to service 3,138 homes at a total cost of $722,282.

Under plans announced when the maps and the project survey were submitted to Washington, the district had been divided into four divisions to facilitate construction.

Pickaway county was divided into two parts, Harry Montelius, county manager, explained. One section of the county includes Pickaway, Salt Creek, Circleville, Washington and parts of Walnut townships and Clearcreek, Hocking, Madison and Amanda townships of Fairfield county. In the western section are all townships of the county lying west of the river.

Reports by Montelius show 167.5 miles of lines in the eastern section and 160 miles in the west. The estimated cost for the eastern section, including service to 699 homes, is $187,558. Cost of construction in the western section, where 650 homes are listed for service, is $154,452.

The remainder of Fairfield county makes up the third section and Perry county comprises the fourth.

Pickaway county trustees of the organization, in addition to Mr. Steeley, are R. D. Head, Pickaway township and Dewey Downs, Derby.

ble "was deliberately provoked by union officials."

"They feel, with or without justification, that the LaFollette civil liberties committee sympathizes with their aims and they simply want to trump up a charge of Ford brutality to take down to Washington and flaunt before the senatorial committee," he said.

"I know definitely no Ford service men or plant police were involved in any way in the fight. As a matter of fact, the service men had issued instructions that the union people could come and distribute pamphlets at the gates as long as they didn't interfere with employees at work."

The Ford service chief insisted that the union men were beaten by regular Ford employees who were on their way to work on the afternoon shift.

AGED EDUCATOR HELD FOR BOND IN ASSAULT CASE

GREENFIELD, Mass., May 27 — (UP — Thomas Edwin Elder, 60, today was ordered held in $10,000 bail for trial next Thursday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on a former associate of Mount Hermon school, where he resigned as dean after the shotgun murder of Headmaster Elliott Spear in September, 1934.

The scheduled meeting of Elder and his accuser, S. Allen Norton, 66, who was cashier at Mount Hermon when Dr. Spear was slain, failed to materialize. Norton did not appear at court.

ment of a temporary drought committee, said the situation in eight or ten states is increasingly critical.

M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of agriculture, took charge of relief preparations as head of the special committee. Wallace said that unless the drought is broken soon the committee will be made permanent.

The new drought does not cover as large an area as in 1934 or 1936, but in the area affected is more severe, agriculture officials said.

Western congressmen, alarmed by the prospect of a crop failure in an area extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Missouri valley and from Canada to Texas, have appealed to Wallace to support demands for a $1,000,000,000 drought relief appropriation.

trouble convincing them that the union framed and planned the disturbance," Bennett said.

Richard T. Frankenstein and Walter Reuther headed the group of union organizers who went to Ford's River Rouge plant yesterday to distribute union literature to thousands of homeward-bound workmen. The union is attempting to enlist support for its campaign to force Ford to recognize it as collective bargaining agency for his workers. His assembly plant at Richmond, Calif., has been closed by a strike of union members who demanded a six-hour day

at once, are centered mostly in Cleveland, Youngstown and other cities of northeastern Ohio's "Little Ruhr" and in the Chicago area.

Chairman Philip Murray of the C. I. O.'s steel workers organizing committee and other union leaders claimed a great majority of the workers had joined the strike.

Independent surveys indicated about 62,450 men were on strike or forced into idleness by closing of the mills. The companies announced no figures, but scattered plants still were operating.

All Plants Guarded

At the day-shift hour today most of the three companies' plants were patrolled by brawny pickets. Many carried clubs, bricks and baseball bats. The plants were strongly guarded.

The Republic Corporation said it still was operating its Truscon plant in Cleveland, as well as one in Canton, O., one in Warren, O., one in Niles, O., and one in South Chicago, Ill., in which 400 cots were installed for workers off duty.

Three other Republic plants in Cleveland, one in Youngstown, four in Canton, two in Massillon, one in Elyria, O., and one in Buffalo, N. Y., were among those closed.

So were the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company's plants in Youngstown and the Chicago area. The Inland companies major mills in the Chicago area were shut. Police at Canton reported the first serious casualty of the strike occurred early today when Franklin P. Manly, 32, a foreman at the

Berger Manufacturing company, was shot as he ran toward the entrance of the plant.

Frank K. Urchov, 29, a company guard, was held on a charge of "shooting with intent to wound" after he admitted firing at Manly with a shotgun.

The foreman, hospitalized with wounds in both hands and both legs, said he had "started to work" and "was shot by someone from ambush." Hospital authorities said his condition was not serious.

Scattered disorders and instances of violence were reported. Chicago police, enforcing orders against mass picketing, held 21 men for investigation, including John V. Riffe, a director of the steel workers organizing committee. A Republic employee at Youngstown was injured slightly when he attempted to pass through the picket lines. Three men were beaten at Warren, O.

The strike began yesterday when workers walked out of six Republic plants at Canton and Massillon, O. Union leaders said the men there "spontaneously" jumped the gun.
